Everybody Congratulated, Nobody Castigated

Smiles Fly Past Premier's Posies

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett held his first capital press conference since Monday's election yesterday and opened it by happily shuffling through a thick wad of congratulatory letters and telegrams.

He got over a thousand, he said, as he played peek-a-boo with reporters through a dense thicket of floral bouquets sent to him by well-wishers.

It was a goodwill press conference.

The premier was beaming. For the first time in weeks he castigated nobody.

At one point he started to say something about Tory leader Fulton but caught himself just in time with, "No, no, I won't say that."

Were any of the telegrams non-congratulatory? a reporter asked.

"No, no," said the premier, or if there were his efficient staff had culled them out.

One telegram was from Liberal leader Ray Perrault, he said. Scored leaders Robert Thompson and Reel Caouette had also sent messages.

When newsmen laughed at this the premier said "they come from all wings of the party—it takes two wings to fly."

He said he was happy with the election because it gave him a strong mandate and a strong opposition as well. He wouldn't want anything like 50 of the 52 legislative seats.

He hoped his government would last as long as the Alberta Social Credit government — 28 years so far and still going strong.

Still smiling, he said he wasn't having any part of an $80,000,000 highway approach system which Vancouver would like to see connected with the existing Lions Gate Bridge and the sister-span which the premier promised before the election.

He would build the bridge but the throughways are out as far as the government is concerned. They would spoil Vancouver and they aren't necessary anyway, he said.

He also made it crystal clear he isn't going to force any merger of municipalities in B.C., particularly in Greater Victoria.

"We'll never force that as

Youth Vs. Age

Navy Admits Ship Damage

Pylon Blasted In Fraser Valley

ABBOTSFORD (CP) — Bomb damage was discovered Wednesday night under a power pylon on a main British Columbia Hydro transmission line carrying power to the Vancouver area.

The explosion occurred some 30 miles from the special federal prison where about 100 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors are serving terms for terrorism and bombings. Many of their relatives are camped in a tent town near the penitentiary.

Nobody's Talking

Nine Negroes Shot In Gang 'Rumble'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — An apparent gang "rumble" erupted Wednesday night and nine Negroes were wounded by shotgun blasts from a moving car.

There was no racial connection to the shootings, police said. Negroes were believed to have fired the shots.

The shootings occurred at two separate locations. Two persons were shot in the first incident.

Five minutes later and 11 blocks away, seven Negroes were wounded.

Officers said the victims apparently knew who the assailants were but refused to tell. Police said they believed it involved gang warfare between the 31st Street gang, 23rd Street gang and the Leeds gang.

FELLET WOUNDS

The seven victims injured in the second incident were sitting on a porch and most received shotgun pellet wounds in the legs.

All nine were taken to hospital. Spokesmen said none was seriously wounded.

30 Dead

Carnage Left By Hurricane

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters) — A United States naval pilot flying medical supplies to hurricane-shattered Tobago island told Wednesday of "scenes of carnage" where at least 30 persons died.

Capt. Joseph Dineen flew the first U.S. airlift of medical supplies and a three-man medical team to the island, lashed by the 140-mile-an-hour winds of Hurricane Flora Monday.

MERCY FLIGHTS

The mercy flights continued as U.S. forecasters warned that the northward moving hurricane had become a menace to other Caribbean areas.

Tons of food were flown to Tobago and a dozen Trinidad medical men were flown in to aid Tobago's overcrowded Scarborough hospital. Gifts of cash, food and clothing poured into collection depots here for the stricken islanders.

ANGRY EDITORIAL

The Evening News in an editorial calls for better hurricane reporting facilities to be set up by British, French and Dutch authorities in the area as complaints grow that Tobago had not received adequate warning of the storm's coming.

The London Lloyd's insurance agency confirmed Wednesday that the Tobago death toll was at least 30.

The propulsion machinery of the destroyer escort HMCS Saguenay was heavily damaged while the warship was being towed to Vancouver last week, the Colonist learned last night.

Navy officials confirmed the mishap last night but declined to confirm reports damage may run upwards of $30,000.

"Extent of damage will not be known until a full investigation is completed," a navy spokesman said.

He disclosed a formal investigation has begun.

PROPELLER TROUBLE

The Saguenay's machinery was damaged after the ship's propellers engaged during the towing operation, the spokesman said. It is believed the forced lubricating system was not engaged.

The old warship, which played a strenuous role in the North Atlantic during the Second World War, was on her way to Burrard Drydock in North Vancouver for a major reconstruction which will prolong her usefulness in the nuclear age.

EVEN THE FAST

Although the navy keeps much of its logistical information under tight security wraps, it is believed the gradual reconstruction of old warships such as the Saguenay is creating a hunter-killer combination which can track down and destroy even the fast nuclear submarines.

OSLO (AP) — In the speech from the throne at the opening Wednesday of Norway's Storting (parliament), it was announced that the government will introduce a law making vacations of at least four weeks compulsory.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons Wednesday defeated by a vote of 105 to 91 the motion of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that the government make public the Aug. 16 Canada-U.S. nuclear custody and control agreement.

The Liberals were joined in defeating the motion by four Social Credit members: leader Robert Thompson, A. B. Patterson, Fraser Valley, Bert Leboe, Cariboo, and H. A. Olson, Medicine Hat.

Reds' Capitalist Orgy Floating Flop

By DAVID WILLEY

TUNIS — The sleek white Soviet cruise ship Litva is steaming in the sunshine along the North African coast, and the Red Chinese are howling a capitalistic orgy is taking place on board.

The Litva holds a mixed cargo of international jour-nists, mainly from the Soviet bloc, who are holding a floating conference. Several communists have joked heavily that a Chinese submarine was tailing the liner.

They accused the Russians of wooing western journalists with vodka, caviar and "other pleasures," which the comrades were not adverse to sharing.

how a luxury Mediterranean cruise was possibly going to help the "struggle of the people."

They accused the Russians of wooing western journalists with vodka, caviar and "other pleasures," which the comrades were not adverse to sharing.

with "decadent western imperialists."

Despite the charges, the cruise has been a rather dull affair. It has been somewhat enlivened by the bubbling presence of Alexei Adzhubel, Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law and editor of Izvestia.

Adzhubel appeared on deck in a variety of colorful sport shirts which contrasted favorably with the rather drab cruise dress of most of his comrades.

He also led a lot of hearty singing and at the ship's concert proceeded to conduct a vigorous cruise song composed by the Soviet delegation.

There were gallant attempts at organized jollification. "Let's organize a swimming and diving competition," exhorted one poster. This seemed rather over-optimistic since the ship's swimming pool only had three feet of water in it.

The "other pleasures" darkly hinted at in the Chinese document turned out to be fairly innocuous. The pretty girl stewards on board danced rather staid fox trots and polkas with the East European delegations, and couldn't seem to "get with it" when the African journalists started to sway to the rhythms of the three-piece band which accompanied the cruise.

Bennett Picks New Speaker

Prince Rupert hotel owner William Murray will be Speaker at the next session of the legislature.

He will succeed Hugh Stants, the Vernon realtor who declined re-election by the Socials before the Sept. 30 election and who had been Speaker since 1959.

ACTING CHAIRMAN

Mr. Murray, 47, has been acting chairman of the House for the past two sessions.

Premier Bennett told a press conference yesterday he hoped to recommend him as speaker at the next session.

The announcement amounts to a confirmation of the split of the fact the House has the right of choice.

Mr. Murray will step ahead of Alex. Matthews, 76, deputy speaker for many years.

His part-time job — the speaker is only active while the legislature is in session — will bring his pay to $3,900 a year. He gets $400 as an MLA and the Speaker gets a further $3,500.

The premier refused to discuss a replacement for Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle Westwood who was 31 votes behind his NDP opponent in Nanaimo and the Islands Monday night.

NIGHT RESIGN

The premier was confident the minister would win on the final count and, if he didn't, there was the possibility someone might resign to create a vacancy for him.

Considered likely alternative choices if Mr. Westwood was to be replaced are Dan Campbell of Comox and William Spears of Cariboo.

Doublecross Saved Capone

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph Valachi, spilling the secrets of the crime brotherhood, called Cosa Nostra, told senators Wednesday a gangland doublecross backfired as overloads of the New York mobs turned on each other in a fierce battle for power.

He told of a secret list that marked for doom such underworld big shots of 30 years ago as Al Capone, Frank Costello, Charles (Lucky) Luciano, Vito Genovese, Vincent Mangano and Dutch Schultz.

BRIEF REIGN

And he told of the slaying of Salvatore Maranzano, the man who drew up the list, killed by his rivals after a brief reign as Cosa Nostra's "boss of all bosses."

The hearings were recessed until next Tuesday morning.

Maranzano grabbed power, Valachi said, after lieutenants of rival boss Giuseppe Masseria gunned down their own chief in a Coney Island restaurant.

"His own lieutenants wanted to do it themselves," Valachi said.

Back for the third chapter of his tale of crime, Valachi told the Senate investigations subcommittee about a mass meeting of New York hoodlums at which Maranzano declared peace and installed himself as the head man.

He described a five-night banquet which honored Maranzano and his "soldiers" — and raised $115,000 for the coffers of the Cosa Nostra chief.

"I never got a nickel," Valachi said. He said Maranzano planned to use the money to send his soldiers "back to the mattresses" — back to warfare to wipe out the men on his death list.

LAWYER BOUGHT

The investigation is designed to produce evidence that will help win passage of new anti-crime laws sought by the justice department.

Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy wants Congress to authorize wiretapping in the war against organized crime, and to pass a law that would grant witnesses against the crime immunity from prosecution, while denying them the right to refuse testimony on grounds of self-incrimination.

Increase in Blood Pressure Should Be Only Temporary

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Doctor: Kindly describe hypertensive vascular disease.

—H.N.M.

Hypertensive vascular disease is high blood pressure with some degree of blood vessel and heart involvement.

"Hypertension" is quite understandable a misnomer. For whatever reason, we all think first of "tension" in terms of "nervousness."

NOT ALWAYS

That isn't what it means in "hypertensive disease." Hypertension (or too-much-tension) simply means too much pressure. High blood pressure!

We are commonly confused further because too much nervous tension is a frequent companion of too much blood pressure. They often go together. But not always.

There is a further implication in the term, hypertensive vascular disease. The implication is that it is of long standing. There isn't any reason to be disturbed over a temporary increase in blood pressure. You "blow your top" at some situation or other; or you are frightened; or you have to rally all your energy and alertness for an emergency or you are scared. Your blood pressure rises.

That's a natural response. But it should be temporary. If the pressure, for no valid reason, continues indefinitely, it is quite excessive pressure in time has its effect on the blood vessels (which makes it "vascular"). The heart becomes enlarged. There may or may not be evidence of heart weakness — shortness of breath, swelling of the ankles. Or heart pain.

MAYBE NOT

An electrocardiogram may or may not reveal changes. Temporary high blood pressure is to be expected. Continued high pressure is not. Therefore hypertensive cardiovascular disease implies that the trouble is continuing and is producing other changes.

The seriousness depends upon the duration and height of the pressure plus any signs of heart involvement.

Not all cases of high blood pressure disclose heart complications. But when your doctor says that you have hypertensive disease, it is time for you to pay strict attention to such things as he may advise to bring that pressure down.

All of us can have brief instances of high blood pressure which will not hurt us and may, indeed, be very helpful to us. But if we fall into a physiological habit of continued high pressure, we'd better do something about it.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about a fungus growth beneath fingernails and toenails? I have heard there is a long treatment of perhaps nine months in a year.—Mrs. E.C.

Griseofulvin has been effective in treating fungus infections of some types. Since the nails grow slowly, the treatment must be spread over a long time before you can be entirely rid of infected tissues. The drug should be taken under medical supervision.

Old Age Pension

'Vulgar Contest' Clears Way For $10 Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons cleared the first parliamentary hurdle Wednesday towards a $10 increase in old age pensions, but not before hearing a biting rebuke of the free-wheeling political wrangling that has marked the three-day pension debate.

New Democratic MP Colin Cameron said the debate Tuesday night developed into "the most vulgar shouting contest" the Commons has heard in some time.

TAKE LESSONS

Some members should have taken "elementary lessons in well-mannered behavior," said Mr. Cameron, member for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands.

Members should remember they were being watched even more closely by the public since they had voted themselves a pay raise to $18,000 a year from $10,000.

His remarks received deafening applause from Conservative and Liberal benches the source of Tuesday's wrangling.

NO DISSENTERS

The Commons then approved, without a dissenting voice, a preliminary resolution permitting introduction of the government bill that will boost the pension to $75 a month and increase the personal income tax levy earmarked for the pension fund to four per cent from three.

Opposition spokesmen indicated the bill itself will receive relatively prompt passage when it comes up later this week or next week.

The Commons also received from Finance Minister Gordon a further addition to the government's spending program for the current fiscal year.

COLIN CAMERON

Age Bias End Asked

OTTAWA (CP) — Wallace Nesbitt (PC-Oxford) suggested in the Commons Wednesday that the government introduce tax concessions and a massive publicity campaign to end job discrimination against the above-40 age group.

He asked the government to consider any measures that could explode what he called the "myths and prejudices" surrounding older employees.

Christine Stripped of Glamour

By ROBERT MUSEL
LONDON (UPI) — The prosecution yesterday stripped away the last remnants of glamour from Christine Keeler, the call girl of the Profumo scandal, with a recital of how she was kicked and beaten by an ex-convict and lived in fear of her West Indian lover.

The 21-year-old redhead, who considered herself a celebrity when her name was linked with War Minister John Profumo and others, sat haggard and frightened in the prisoner's dock on charges of fraud.

Critics of Funerals 'Sensation Sellers'

MONTREAL — Criticism of funeral practices such as that in Sandra Mitchell's new book The American Way of Death comes from "sensation peddlers," says William Mustard of Caspar, Wyo., president of The National Selected Morticians.

Declaring the funeral a religious act, he said funeral directors lead 60 per cent of families served to their first contact with religion in many years.

SAN FRANCISCO — Court officials convinced Jack Steenbergs and Marlene Walbrihts of Irontown, Ohio, they should return to their spouses for the sake of their children. They obtained Mexican divorcees against wife Margaret and husband Fred, respectively, married and planned to go to Australia with the children until juvenile authorities stepped in.

NEW YORK — ABC cancelled 100 Grand, the first big network TV quiz show since the 21 scandal, after three performances. Producer Robert Silvers said: "The public looked, they weren't interested and they voted no."

LONDON — Car magnate Lord Nuffield left an estate of $9,735,000. Death duties will take $3,300,000, most of the rest goes to Nuffield College at Oxford.

ATHENS — Jacqueline Kennedy arrived aboard a jet airliner to begin a 15-day vacation in Greece.

LONDON — Mrs. Gertrude Wilkinson invited her friends into her luxurious home to honor the 73rd birthday of her butler Nagel. Nagel, as usual, served the drinks.

TORONTO — Farquhar Oliver, twice previously leader of the Ontario Liberal party, was elected unanimously by his fellow Liberals in the Ontario legislature as interim leader.

LONDON — Sydney Newman, BBC television drama chief, said some television dramas should include profanity to be realistic, but he will try to keep "bad language" off the air at tea time.

MONTREAL — The Gazette says former U.S. vice-president Richard Nixon would accept the 1964 Republican presidential nomination in the event of a Rockefeller-Goldwater deadlock. It cited Nixon's refusal to endorse Rockefeller this time.

VANCOUVER — William Pollock, 24, of North Vancouver, was committed for trial on a charge of criminal negligence, Auxiliary policeman Arthur ing Jamaican jazz singer Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon. This was the other side of the bubbling memoirs Miss Keeler wrote for newspapers after Profumo resigned because of his misconduct with her and it was reported she also was the mistress of Soviet intelligence agent Capt. Eugene Ivanov.

The story that unfolded in a dingy magistrate's court where she and three co-defendants are being given a hearing before trial was a long way in time and place from the historic estate of Lord Astor at Cliveden where she took the nude swim that made her name a household word.

On that night in July, 1961, she met Profumo and started the relationship that led to a government crisis.

NO SMILES

She could not even muster a smile Wednesday for photographers as she hurried into Marylebone magistrate's court to face conspiracy and perjury charges that could, if a trial and conviction follow, result in a long prison sentence.

Her hair needed attention. She scribbled nervous notes in a book as prosecutor John Buzard outlined the case against her and three co-defendants — her apartment-mate Paula Hamilton-Marshall, 23; their housekeeper, Mrs. Olive Brooker, 55; and Rudolph (Trucillo) Fenton, 39, a bearded West Indian chauffeur.

The charges all relate to the three-year sentence meted out to Gordon on charges of assaulting Miss Keeler. His conviction was quashed by the court of criminal appeal and inspired a police inquiry that included a tape recording Miss Keeler made when she was, she alleges, under the influence of drugs and drink.

Miss Keeler and the others are accused of conspiring to conceal from police that Fenton and another West Indian, Clarence Camacchio, were present the night of the attack April 18 and that the injuries inflicted on her were actually the result of an earlier beating by another man.

The three women additionally are charged with perjuring themselves at Gordon's trial.

Five Men, Eight Planes

Low-Level Jet Flying Takes Toll In Pilots

OTTAWA (CP) — The daredevil business of flying a supersonic jet plane at low level — some 50 feet above the ground — is beginning to exact its human toll.

"You cannot fly an aircraft without having casualties," said former defence minister George Pearkes, VC, soon after the government announced in the summer of 1958 it was buying the supersonic CF-104 low-level jet bomber for RCAF air division in Europe.

A high-ranking RCAF officer said the accident rate has been "high" but not "excessive." He also said accidents have been caused more by mechanical failures than by pilot errors.

The air division will not have all its 200 CF-104s until January. Besides these, it has 21 CF-104 trainers.

FIVE PILOTS DIE

An RCAF spokesman said Wednesday five pilots have been killed flying the CF-104 and eight of the planes have been destroyed.

The RCAF spokesman said Wednesday the accident rate for the CF-104—and all other RCAF planes—is secret.

He added that there has been no difficulty finding CF-104 pilots. The F-104 rate dropped to 39.8 in 1960, still the highest for any operational plane in the USAF.

FROM U.S. DESIGN

The CF-104 was built from the design of the American Lockheed Starfighter or F-104, which the U.S. Air Force uses as a high-altitude interceptor.

In 1961, the U.S. Air Force made public figures showing that the accident rate on the F-104 was 61 accidents per 100,000 flying hours compared to a rate of 1.2 throughout the air force. The F-104 rate dropped to 39.8 in 1960, still the highest for any operational plane in the USAF.

The RCAF spokesman said Wednesday the accident rate for the CF-104—and all other RCAF planes—is secret.

He added that there has been no difficulty finding CF-104 pilots. There were many more pilots who wanted to fly the plane than could be used in the eight CF-104 squadrons.

Three pilots have been killed at the training base at Cold Lake, Alta., one at Zweibrücken, West Germany, and one at the NATO bombing range in southern Sardinia.

Three Whites Face Dynamite Trial

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Trial of three white men charged in connection with recent racial bombings here has been set for Tuesday in recorder's court.

The three are Robert E. Chambliss, 59; Charles Cagle, 22, and John Wesley Hall, 36, all free on bail of $300 each after being charged by the state with illegally possessing dynamite.

Chambliss and Cagle were arrested Sunday and held temporarily on an open charge. Hall was arrested Tuesday.

Gromyko Meets Rusk

No N-Arms in Orbit, Reds, U.S. Agree

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko said Wednesday U.S. and Soviet views coincide on keeping nuclear weapons out of orbit. He said agreement on this issue is possible.

Gromyko made his comments to reporters in advance of a dinner meeting with State Secretary Dean Rusk. The question of banning nuclear weapons from outer space is one of the problems which the two leaders have been discussing.

EMPLOYERS WHO HIRE WORKMEN FOR FULL OR PART-TIME WORK

The Workmen's Compensation Act of B.C. requires employers in most industries to register with the Workmen's Compensation Board. This includes persons operating small businesses such as retail stores, apartment houses, trucking, restaurants, etc., where one or more employees are hired for either full or part-time work.

If an employee in an industry covered under the Act sustains an accident and his employer is not registered with the Board the employee is still entitled to Workmen's Compensation benefits, but his employer may be charged with all of the cost of such benefits.

Change of Mind

A LITTLE LESS than a year ago the Macmillan government put forward what it fondly hoped would be its clinching arguments for British entry into the European Common Market. In this, its final campaign of persuasion aimed at doubters in both the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth, the government had the wholehearted support of British industry and the almost solid backing of Fleet Street.

Combined, they told the world that Britain could not survive if she were not a full member of the European union; they made much of inter-European trade and little of hopes for expanding the Commonwealth market; they predicted an immediate decline in Britain's economy if she were denied ECM membership. They spoke scathingly of Common Market critics as being unrealistic, foolish and reactionary.

Despite this the British government's hopes for entry into the ECM were dashed a few months later, not through opposition by the British people nor the stubbornness of the Commonwealth governments, but by the action of the self-styled leader of Europe—President Charles de Gaulle of France.

It is interesting to note that since then Britain has not dissolved into the instant ruin so freely forecast by Mr. Macmillan and his henchmen. Rather has it extended its trade and strengthened its economy.

It is equally interesting to note the change in attitude in many of the former leading exponents of British participation in the European economic union.

Mr. Peregrine Worsthorne of the Sunday Telegraph, once one of the ECM's leading Fleet Street champions, now has this to say: "If one looks closely at Europe today it is difficult to understand why it seemed so irresistibly attractive earlier in the year."

Mr. Peter Runge, president of the Federation of British Industries, an organization which last year saw eye to eye with Mr. Macmillan in the view that Commonwealth trade values were highly overrated, now says this to a New York audience:

"Do not fall into the error of discounting the Commonwealth." The failure of the ECM talks, he said, will hit the Six harder than Britain. Britain has now re-examined her trade policies and has a gleaming future outside of the ECM.

Mr. Reginald Maudling, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, another of the ECM supporters, last week announced a new "Commonwealth Plan" which he says: "... might well reveal new opportunities for trade."

And finally, to underline the British change of mind, the Board of Trade has announced that Britain's exports—unlike those of the ECM nations—continue to rise.

It reports that the 1962 fall in exports to Canada recovered in the first six months of this year and shipments to the United States are now setting new records. In the past 12 months exports to the Sterling area—especially Western Europe—also went up.

So much for the dire prophecies of the pro-Common Market propagandists. So much for those who tried to downgrade the economic strength of the Commonwealth. And so much for those who chose to ignore the determination of the British people to remain independent.

Ecstatic Statistics

PREMIER BENNETT'S political adversaries are apparently still loath to admit that his Social Credit government has scored an outstanding victory in the provincial election.

Rather than acknowledge the fact that the Social Party has gained considerable success at the polls in that it has not only increased its representation in the legislature but also captured a larger share of the popular vote, Mr. Bennett's opponents are desperately attempting to read his success as failure.

Now adding their two cents' worth to such fetid post-election comments as Liberal leader Ray Perrault's observation that Mr. Bennett had won the election on a "phony issue" and NDP leader Robert Strachan's: "There is obviously no stability in the Social Credit government..." a gaggle of political pundits have set out to prove that Mr. Bennett does not enjoy the confidence of the majority of British Columbia voters.

Sticking to the negative line provincial political punditry followed so closely during the election campaign, the analysts back up their contention by pointing out that election statistics show that six out of 10 people voted against Mr. Bennett, and that out of some 900,000 votes cast more than 500,000 were marked against the Social Credit party.

However, in arriving at their conclusions, none has attempted to apply the same formula to the other political parties which so unsuccessfully tried to oust Mr. Bennett from office.

Had they done so they would have discovered by the same token that more than seven out of 10 electors voted against the New Democratic Party, eight of 10 voted against the Liberal Party and nine out of 10 voted against the Conservative Party.

And though it is true that 500,000 British Columbians can be said to have voted against Mr. Bennett, by the same reading nearly 650,000 voted against Mr. Strachan's party, well over 700,000 voted against Mr. Perrault and his Liberals and almost 800,000 voted against the Progressive Conservatives.

Thus would it seem that if Mr. Bennett's critics choose to believe that he does not enjoy much of the confidence of the people of British Columbia, they must also agree that the other parties enjoy even less.

August's Tougher Too

THE GOLDEN glory of September recently led The Oregonian into some disappointing research. Our Portland friend, thinking the poets "would have sung about the month in great measure," turned to Bartlett's Familiar Quotations and found only January and February fared as poorly or worse as subject matter.

"It is understandable," The Oregonian said, "that these months should leave the poets cold, but who can avoid being warmed by such days as we are now enjoying? There is only one possible reason we can think of for the poets' neglect of September: Hardly anything rhymes with it."

We are equally surprised at September's scant mention. But "hardly anything rhymes with it"? How about November and December, ember, remember and dismember? How about—close enough for poets who would rhyme flow and now, as witnessed on this page Wednesday—distemper and surrender and fender? How about resorting to devices like rhyming "September, or" with emperor?

Now take October... Anyone get past sober?

Standing Firm

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

PARLIAMENT has reopened, and to the surprise of everybody except possibly Prime Minister Pearson, with disaster-stricken Finance Minister Walter Gordon still on the firing line.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker who, just before Parliament recessed two months ago, called for Gordon's resignation "before fall," now has hedged the bet.

"Hard though the going must be," he cracked, "Gordon has got to go, and probably will bring himself around to it before the New Year."

But as things are said to be shaping up behind cabinet doors, it is not the finance minister who will have to "bring himself to it" but rather, the prime minister.

For ever since the political and economic catastrophe of the "bungled budget," ghost-written by the inept experts from Bay Street, it has only been the prime minister who has stood between Gordon and the door to resignation and retirement.

After the "botched budget" had twice rocked the Canadian stock markets, jaded American investors and irritated the Kennedy administration to the point of taking damaging tax reprisals, the only friend the beleaguered finance minister had within the cabinet was his old confidante of the years, Lester Pearson, prime minister, and fortunately for Mr. Gordon, the boss.

All other members of the cabinet were so dismayed, even alarmed, by Gordon's budget bumbling, which continued, even now, causing certain uneasiness in the national economy, that some of them were talking openly of his resignation being only a matter of time.

And by time, they meant weeks, even days.

But the prime minister, stubbornly loyal to old friends, dug in his heels.

Hadn't Gordon been the one who, in the darkest days of the Pearson career, just after his election to the party leadership, had provided the organizational savvy and drive in the rebuilding of the party and the redrafting of its policy?

Gordon had stuck with him when he stood, almost alone, amid the ruin of defeat after the smashing 206-seat Conservative triumph of the 1958 election.

So now Pearson, in turn, was standing loyally by Gordon while just about everybody else, including the opposition, the Canadian financial community, domestic and foreign investors, certain segments within the Kennedy administration and even the federal cabinet were clamoring for his resignation.

"Mr. Gordon," the prime minister has smiled, unruffled amid the uproar, "is good for a good many years yet."

And the finance minister, so recently so overwhelmed by the deafening "Gordon-must-go" din, as to be almost intimidated, now has begun talking heart and talking back.

With a convincing turn of indignation, he has announced he has "no intention whatsoever of resigning," adding, a little tartly, that he didn't think there was anybody now who seriously suggested he should quit.

Further, he felt it was about time for the political gossips of Parliament Hill to dig up something new to chew on.

And there the situation remains as the Commons huddles to business.

Except...

From now on, the finance minister is going to find his wings clipped.

No more is he to be allowed a free hand in writing the budget.

His first, it now turns out, will be his last old budget. He and his Bay Street ghost writers kept that one strictly to themselves, observing budget secrecy as it seldom has been observed before, and sprung it as a big unhappy surprise on the assembled cabinet.

Now, traditional budget secrecy will be honored more in theory than in fact, with the cabinet's businessmen, Trade Minister Sharp, Production Minister Drury, Revenue Minister Garland looking over the finance minister's shoulder and even guiding his hand a little when he begins writing the new budget.

And then there's always this... the prime minister, under pressure, just might buckle even yet, and let Gordon go—to another, if less important post, of course—using the finance minister's still unscarred health, naturally, as the reason.

Thinking Aloud

... of ships, and ships, and sailing was...

By TOM TAYLOR

A FRENCH poet once confessed that did the parade pass his door with the Tricolor flying and the band playing he'd be unable to restrain himself from running out to see the show. That is why most of us hasten to the source of the musical sound when in some nearby street a military procession is in progress.

Even a ban-the-bomb proponent can appreciate his conscience by enjoying the spectacle without a qualm. It can be "a feast for the eyes and a banquet for the ear," as a New York paper said of the Black Watch, due to perform in the Arena later this month, when the band, pipes and drums of this famous regiment took America by storm six years ago.

Military bands and drill squads which thrill the onlookers with the pageantry of their displays are, in truth, entertainers, and can well be looked at in this light. This is an era when the realm of entertainment never was so all embracing, or the public more devoted to it, so as well as being hard to beat for starting exhibition and pulsating appeal these military occasions fall neatly into the category of a show.

Were that elusive pimpernel, disarmament, ever to be finally captured and its frowning visage made all powerful everywhere, it would still add to the gaiety of a world at peace to retain soldiers in the form of army bands and their colorful accessories. Indeed were they to depart from our gaze for ever we should be sadly bereft.

You will be able to judge the truth of this come this weekend when the Princess Patricia's struts the panoply of their style in several far-flung public gestures. They too will invite the response as did the adored Black Watch, that "there is the show of a lifetime."

A major show of this ilk came before mine eyes and ears five weeks ago when tattoo troops at the Edinburgh Festival set the Castle affirms with enthusiastic applause and acclaim. Some friends in our party, grown slightly blasé from previous spectacles there, perhaps, thought the display didn't match up to previous years, but for yours truly the show was surfeit to the eye and heart. One would have to have a stone image not to have shivered with inward delight as the bandmen came through the portcullis gate and spilled outwards in formation on to the Esplanade, in spotlighted grandeur of many hues and picturesque accoutrement.

And, as I mentioned briefly before, with a company of Arabs stealing the show with their perfection of form and musical flair.

Ceremonial color will be at a minimum with the Patricia's as they engage the admiring eyes of Victorians on Saturday and Sunday, for they are on duty bound and will parade in the khaki that reveals the verity of the ordinance that rank was made to stand erect on two legs. Few of us beyond the military confine do, but we can feast ourselves vicariously, and enviously, on the elan bearing of the PPCLI as the battalion lifts to the lilt of its martial music.

And later, with the Black Watch as another star attraction straight from the Edinburgh Festival, savor enjoyment to the full as these soldiers too, emblazoned in the glamar of a traditionally spectacular garb, demonstrate that when it comes to show business the military band is top of the bill.

British Opinion Split

Guide to the Multilateral Force

By NOVA BELOFF from London

BRITAIN is still undecided whether to join America, West Germany, Italy and other non-nuclear members of NATO in planning a nuclear force.

The British defence ministry thinks it would add nothing to NATO security. The foreign office, on the other hand, thinks that if Britain is left out of the planning she will diminish her role in NATO and lose influence in Europe.

What is this multilateral nuclear force?

It is a force which, instead of belonging to a single country, would belong collectively to several. It would be paid for and manned jointly, and none of the partners could press the button unless the others agreed.

What is it going to look like?

The newest plan, would be for a fleet of 25 surface ships with polyglot crews armed with Polaris missiles. The original submarine idea was dropped partly because it was too expensive and partly because it occurred to the Americans that Europeans would need to have access to the secrets of their nuclear engine propulsion rooms.

But surely NATO already has nuclear as well as old-fashioned forces to stop an enemy attack?

Yes: two NATO countries, the U.S. and Britain, have nuclear weapons for defending the NATO area.

Isn't this enough?

Yes, probably more than enough. Even without the British contribution the Americans have enough bombs and missiles to destroy the Soviet Union in 15 minutes. The Russians are believed to have only a four-fold "overkill" capacity. Then why build up extra forces?

The purpose of the multilateral force is not to increase the West's military strength. Not all soldiers and sailors go along with Viscount Montgomery that the whole idea is "poppycock," but none of the experts argue that it will make a decisive difference to the balance of power.

The purpose is not military, but political. The Americans feel that if the Europeans have a share in the joint nuclear force they will not insist on each having a national nuclear deterrent of its own.

Mr. Krushchev has complained that the MLF would give the Germans their first access to nuclear weapons, but the American foreign-policy planners at the Pentagon, who invented the idea, argue that otherwise the Germans will insist on having bombs of their own.

Why would the Germans want them?

It's partly a question of prestige. Britain and France have said that they thought it unfair to be dependent on America. There is no reason why Germany should feel otherwise.

And there is, of course, the great military revolution which has come with the development of intercontinental missiles. These enable the Russians and Americans to lob thermonuclear shells directly at each other.

Most statesmen in the Orient subscribe to this view, though few permit themselves to say so publicly. And, quite naturally, Premier Ike's declaration of retaking mainland China were wishful thinking. Any such effort, he added, would create war which Japan would oppose.

In Taipei, the Chinese Nationalist capital, the Japanese embassy has received bomb threats and the Japanese ambassador has ordered his staff to cancel all social contacts with the Chinese Nationalists.

But behind this current friction, far deeper hostility is being felt by the Nationalists towards the Japanese because of Japan's growing trade with Communist China. Japanese businessmen are now visiting China frequently and plans are afoot to hold Japanese trade fairs in Shanghai and Peking in the near future. Japan has also sold China a $20 million synthetic textile plant on generous five-year deferred-payment terms.

Chinese Nationalist irritation with Japanese business prospecting on the mainland has been increasing within recent years, but the textile factory deal unleashed an explosion of fury.

Another Triumph

From The Toronto Daily Star

THE Soviet propaganda machine is an awesome thing when it's working well, but a comic creation when it goes off its Marx. The latest edition of the Soviet Weekly has landed on our desk trumpeting another triumph for Soviet agriculture.

Despite bad weather, says a front-page story, last year's grain harvest was 147 million tons. Alongside is a picture of a Soviet threshing expert running his hands through the grain. "Wonderful wheat," reads the caption, "and there's lots of it... thanks to better farming techniques, machines and the big increase in cultivated land..."

And imports from Canada?

So what happens now?

The countries favoring the idea are setting up an MLF working party in Paris, aiming to produce a blueprint for the annual NATO ministerial conference which meets before Christmas. Mr. Dean Rusk, the American secretary of state, told Lord Home, Britain's foreign secretary, that by joining the committee, Britain would not be committing herself to joining the MLF. But, obviously, it would be considered an intrusion for any country to attend the discussions, if its government had already decided it was not going to participate.

Between Formosa, Japan

An Increase in Friction

By STANLEY KARNOW from Hong Kong

A BITTER fight now brews between the Chinese Nationalists and the Japanese could have serious political repercussions in Asia. On the surface it has taken the form of divergent views about future events in the Far East.

In talks with visiting American journalists in Tokyo, the Japanese premier, Mr. Hayato Ikeda, candidly remarked that he believed Nationalist hopes of retaking mainland China were wishful thinking. Any such effort, he added, would create war which Japan would oppose.

Most statesmen in the Orient subscribe to this view, though few permit themselves to say so publicly. And, quite naturally, Premier Ike's declaration of retaking mainland China were wishful thinking. Any such effort, he added, would create war which Japan would oppose.

Remarkable Prophecy

From The Oregonian

AN old issue of the late, lamented magazine of comment, Vanity Fair (discovered, as help us, in a dentist's office) discloses a remarkable instance of prophecy. Historian Harold Nicolson, in an illustrated profile on Winston Churchill published in 1931, describes this subject as the most interesting figure of the time in Britain, then goes on:

"His dominant qualities are imagination, courage and loyalty; his dominant defect is impatience. He is a man who leads forth hopes, and when the hopes of England become fiercer, he will once again be summoned to leadership."

This was published almost a full decade before the forlorn days of World War II, when Winston Churchill was, indeed, recalled to leadership.

But even a good prophet cannot be perfect. The hopes Winston Churchill was called to lead in 1940 proved not to be forlorn.

U.S. Army Halts Racial Discrimination

By WILLIAM MACDOUGALL
from Washington

The U.S. Army has quietly ordered a rapid increase in the recruitment and promotion of Negro officers.

The program is part of an intervening campaign to end discrimination in the armed forces and in areas near service posts. It has been ordered into effect at army posts throughout the world.

In seeking to attract a larger number of qualified Negroes as officers and to promote them to high rank when they have proved their merit, greater attention will also be given to assigning them to jobs of more prestige. In the present 972,000-man army, there are 3,150 Negro officers, representing 3.3 per cent of the total army officer strength as compared to 12.9 per cent in the other ranks. No number has been set as a goal for the increase. Officer recruitment campaigns are currently underway at Negro colleges. A number of southern cities near army posts have voluntarily agreed to the integration of many facilities. In one Georgia community police officials have consented to refrain from enforcement of laws which prevent a Negro from living with a white mate.

A number of Negro soldiers are married to white women, many of them European, and have traditionally faced grave problems when attempting to find off-base housing near southern posts.

Public men are more vulnerable than they were and it behooves them, even more than ever, to give no cause for scandal.—Lord Denning.

Steady Stream

Red Bloc Mecca To Kenya Africans

The London Observer, from Nairobi

Since the advent of self-government, Kenya Africans have been making the most of their new freedom to visit and study life in the communist world.

In the past, only a few, such as Oginga Odinga, who is now minister for home affairs in the Kenyan government, made secret and illegal trips to Moscow and Peking—and on their return forfeited their passport for defying the ban placed on such trips by the British colonial government.

Now Odinga is the minister controlling the passport, and there is a steady flow of traffic to communist-bloc countries. Some go on brief, fact-finding missions, others to study. A Soviet Aeroflot jet has just carried a fresh load of students to Moscow from East Africa.

And when final arrangements for Kenya's independence have been completed with the British colonial office, a high-powered Kenya trade mission is due to leave Britain for a tour behind the Iron Curtain. Capitals on the itinerary include East Berlin, Prague, Warsaw, Belgrade, Moscow and possibly Bucharest.

The object of this trip is to try to find fresh outlets for crops such as coffee and pyrethrum now restricted in the West by international production and marketing quotas.

Just back from China is a delegation of Kanu (Kenya African National Union) supporters, after a two-week stay as guests of the Peking government. Although they returned empty-handed as far as cash or promises were concerned, they hope the contacts made will lead to a program of assistance for Kenya after independence.

These delegates were impressed by life in Communist China and returned bitterly denouncing the curfew treatment received on their stop-overs in Russia. "When they found we were on our way to China, the Russians simply transferred their hatred of China to us," the delegation head, John Kadi, declared on his return to Nairobi.

While they saw much they liked during their glimpse of China under communist rule, several of the Kanu delegation rejected outright the possibility of land expropriation in Kenya, on the same lines as China.

Senator Martin Jilo, who comes from the coast region, said land ownership by the state would never work in an African country. "It's the African's chief aim in life to own a piece of land," he said.

'Good Old Mustard Gas'

The United States still is working on the technique of chemical, biological and radiological (atomic fallout) warfare in the belief that Russia is doing the same thing.

Brig. Gen. William T. Ryder, director of special weapons in the Army's office of research and development, has stated that the United States must continue to develop these lethal weapons systems to make enemy soldiers either give up the idea of combat or die.

"We must be ready to retaliate with the good old mustard gas, with other poison gases or with nerve gases, because other nations probably are doing the same thing," Ryder said. "We hope we never have to use any of these, but we must be ready."

He also told of a non-lethal incapacitating agent that takes from the soldier any desire to fight. Enough of it could render an entire regiment or even a division uncombatant.

Transkei Experiment

Apartheid Showcase Unveiling This Fall

From Pondoland, South Africa

About 3,000,000 African tribesmen of Transkei move into a human display window of limited self-government in white-ruled South Africa this fall.

BACKGROUND

The people are the Xhosa, divided into numerous tribes with age-old rivalry.

There are more than 800,000 Xhosa men and women registered for the legislative elections in later November.

The Africans, however, will find much has already been decided for them. They will elect only 45 of the 109 members of the legislative assembly. The other members will be 64 tribal chiefs, automatically elected. Critics say these chiefs are nothing but white government stooges.

Furthermore, President Charles R. Swart of South Africa can veto any act of the legislature.

The South African government retains control of defence, foreign affairs, roads, railways, ports and immigration. Six white government administrators will head various state departments and assist in training Africans for state jobs.

Transkei will have its own flag and anthem and the official language will be Xhosa.

Political turbulence centres around the scores of tribal chiefs and hundreds of headmen—all having their own views on how the state should be governed.

Four paramount chiefs form the political nucleus of the new government. Powerful leaders of the major Transkei tribes, they all seek the main job of chief minister.

(Associated Press)

The aim is to try to sell the world on the idea that South Africa's apartheid policy will work.

Much of the administration in Transkei will be turned over to African civil servants this month. State elections will be held in November. A limited self-governing state will be in operation by Christmas.

Vatican

Bible Ranks Higher

VATICAN CITY (AP)—New Roman Catholic emphasis on biblical research, long a favorite domain of Protestant scholars, emerged Wednesday at the Vatican ecumenical council.

Most of the day's 17 speakers in St. Peter's Basilica dwelt on word meanings and symbols from both Old and New Testaments as they suggested changes in the schema (topic) "de ecclesia"—concerning the church.

They delved in areas that touch upon exegesis—a theological specialty in which biblical scholars investigate and interpret scriptural meanings.

WHO BELONGS

"De ecclesia" re-examines what Christ intended in founding a church, what its structure really is and who belongs to it. A draft of the schema was approved in principle by the council Tuesday. The 2,300 council fathers heard views on the first of the schema's four chapters. The Mystery of the Church.

The chapter starts from the earliest biblical notions of the chosen "People of God" and a promised "Kingdom of God." It also dwells on St. Peter and the other 11 apostles and how they serve as the foundation on which the church was built.

OPINIONS DIFFER

A Dutch cardinal and an Italian bishop presented sharply contrasting opinions, both based on biblical interpretation, as to whether the other apostles share with Peter in church authority. Because catholicism sees its popes as Peter's successors and its bishops as the apostles' successors, the discussion will serve later in the council debates for an expansion of bishops' participation in papal authority.

Bernard Jan Cardinal Alfrink, a renowned Catholic exegete before he became archbishop of Utrecht, said the "de ecclesia" makes too much of the phrase "Peter and the apostles" and thus implies that Peter was not one of the apostles.

Investigations On Campus Hot Topic

EDMONTON (CP)—RCMP security investigations on campuses remain the hottest topic to be dealt with by delegates attending the National Federation of Canadian University Students congress.

Sides already appeared to be forming on the contentious subject of RCMP investigation which is to come up for discussion today.

MORE KNOWLEDGE

The most strenuous opposition group is headed by the University of Alberta. A resolution drafted by Wes Cragg, a University of Alberta philosophy student, calls for university administrators to "demand more knowledge of all security investigations on university campuses."

It also says each professor should "be requested to state to each class or group of students at the beginning of each academic year whether or not he will divulge information concerning the political activities or opinions of students expressed in his presence."

The Alberta resolution also seeks a clear statement of policy on the activity of security organizations from the federal government.

Informer Valachi 'Insane'

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Mobsister Joseph Valachi is "a dirty liar... He's insane," says John C. Montana, named by Valachi as a longtime lieutenant in the secret crime syndicate Cosa Nostra.

Valachi testified Tuesday that Montana, 69, board chairman of a Buffalo taxi company, had asked to be demoted to a "soldier" because Montana "didn't want the boys contacting him anymore."

Montana, who also was at the 1967 Apalachin crime meeting when police arrived, told a reporter he never had met Valachi. He said he was at Joseph Barbara's Apalachin mansion because his car broke down.

LONDON (Reuters) — A Canadian Pacific Britannia airliner with 163 passengers aboard flew on to Amsterdam Wednesday night after making a safe emergency landing here on a flat tire.

London airport fire-fighting equipment and ambulances stood by.

Canada exports wheat... Canada imports Lemon Hart Rums

Canadian wheat is accepted as a standard all over the world because no one can match the combination of soil, climate, and experience that produces it. Rum, on the other hand, is not native to Canada. The best rums, like Lemon Hart, are distilled in the benign climate of the Caribbean... then transported to England where they mature quietly in underground caverns where neither the temperature nor the humidity varies more than a degree or two summer or winter, year in year out.

Obviously a good rum must be imported. And when Lemon Hart Rums reach Canada they are mature, well travelled rums, as distinguished in their way as Canadian wheat — and as well respected throughout the world.

Monetary Probe Set

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada At the same time the 102 and nine other major industrial country international monetary conference, the so-called Paris fund, headed by Pierre-Paul group of 10-agreed Wednesday Schweitzer, also planned an to launch a vast new examine extensive and indecision of the world's monetary structure to see whether more procedures the two groups will credit and other resources are needed to strengthen the free world's economic base.

Speaking for the 10 major countries, U.S. Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon told a press conference the fund's study would be limited in scope while that of the Paris group of 10 would be much broader, ranging over the entire economic field, with one exception: No change in the $35-an-ounce fixed price for gold will be entertained.

NO RESTRICTION

However, Schweitzer, former deputy governor of the Bank of France, bristled with indignation when confronted with the suggestion that the fund's study will be restricted.

Speaking to reporters at a luncheon later, Schweitzer said in reference to Dillon's statement that there will be no restrictions on the fund's study.

But he cautioned reporters against expecting any spectacular decisions to be reached as a result of the studies which might be concluded next year.

Ex-Premier Proposes Peace Plan

PARIS (UPI) — Former Vietnamese premier Tran Van Huu yesterday proposed a government of national union, with Communists excluded, and a guaranteed neutral status as a peace plan for war-torn South Viet Nam.

The statesman, who lives in Paris, said he and his followers who want neutralization of their country are ready to take part in a coalition regime headed by Nguyen Ngoc Tho.

Tran Van Huu interpreted the recent visit of U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, to Nguyen Tho as a possible hint the U.S. government might favor Tho's taking over from President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Woman Doctor Barred In Deformity Death

FRANKFURT (UPI) — Alexander Sidorow, born with stunted arms and legs, when his mother, Mrs. Helga Sidorow, came to her office and told her "it would be better if the boy did not live."

Mrs. Sidorow, 33, denied asking the doctor to kill the child. Police said both women were drunk when they carried the boy to a hospital where he died. Authorities jailed Mrs. Sidorow on suspicion of manslaughter, and said Dr. Peter Petersen told a judge she administered a sedative to same charge.

Russians Adamant On Berlin Issue

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Soviet Union, at a lengthy Russian-American session last night, stood by its long-standing demand for the eventual liquidation of the allied position in Red-encircled West Berlin.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko talked about the long-smouldering Berlin and German issues, among a number of other subjects, in the course of a three-hour dinner conference. It was held at the headquarters of the Soviet delegation to the UN.

American officials said there was no change in the Soviet position on Berlin, which since Thanksgiving Day, 1958, has consisted of the demand that the U.S., Britain and France end their occupation of the divided city.

Whale Meat In Cans?

OTTAWA (CP) — Supermarket shelves may one day soon stock a new Canadian delicacy — canned whale meatballs, manufactured at Canada's first whale and seal meat processing and canning plant.

An agriculture department bulletin said Wednesday the final decision is awaited on the go-ahead to build the projected plant on the Thelma River close to where it empties into Hudson Bay in the Northwest Territories.

Indian Village Site?

Skeleton of Elk Bared in Saanich

The skeleton of an elk was uncovered alongside McKenzie Avenue near the Saanich municipal yard in what anthropologists believe may be an ancient Indian village site.

Discovery was made by Gustave Rapp, 3220 Maple Street, who turned over the skeleton to the provincial museum.

EARTH, MARINE SHELLS
The skeleton was buried beneath layers of peat moss and a mixture of earth and marine shells.

John Sendey, museum anthropologist, said the skeleton was in excellent shape.

OTHERS FOUND
"There have been others found near this site but this one is in the best condition of any we have seen."

"The marine shells were probably taken there by the Indians when it was their village," he said.

"Stone chips and Indian arrow heads have been found in the district before," he said.

Freedom 'Certain' in China

Intellectual suppression in Red China one day will give way to freedom of ideas, says a Victoria scholar who has just returned from a tourist trip to that country.

"This suppression is bound to be a passing phase as the population becomes more educated," Prof. C. S. Burchill of the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, said in an interview last night.

"It will be bound to generate a freedom of ideas, if not in this generation, then the next," he added.

Other observations:
● Red China's internal situation seems stabilized; there appears to be no anti-government agitation.

● The external situation is very dangerous.

● The word from Red Chinese ideological leaders has not gone out yet to hate the Russians. The word is the Russians are wrong and this will be proved by events.

Prof. Burchill said the real danger is the population will expand more rapidly than production.

But, he said, in big city districts there is movement toward a stabilized population. This is not so in the rural districts.

Chief factors in this population control drive are the recommended postponement of marriage, and open sale of contraceptives.

Major reason for Red China's rapid population increase — to 650,000,000 now — is the great decline in infant mortality due to public health services, Prof. Burchill said.

He said officials cannot withdraw much from consumer production without danger of revolution and anarchy.

At this point, he added, Red China is in no position to wage a nuclear war.

"Usually a little bragging takes place when a country possesses nuclear weapons, and I haven't heard Chinese brag."

"The industrial development seemed spotty. The drought two years ago threw that plan out of balance," he said. "Industrial output today is biased toward agriculture."

The professor said the Red Chinese seem to have conquered the famine problem, chronic for 500 years.

"There is less hunger in Red China today than in a good many centuries before."

In size, in performance,
in luxury,
in value,

METEOR

To understand the difference between the '64 Meteor and all other cars in the low-price class—you must understand one thing. Meteor is a bigger car. It is bigger in size, bigger in performance, bigger in luxury and bigger in value. It is, in fact, the first car of medium-price size and stature to be sold in Canada as a low-priced car.

Meteor's extra length means a big car ride

The '64 Meteor is a big 218.5 inches long. And, of course, the bigger the car the better the ride. It stands to reason. A bigger car straddles the bumps better to eliminate regular dip and dive. But the '64 Meteor doesn't just rely on extra length to give you a better ride—it also gives you the extra comfort of Cushion Link Suspension. This allows wheels to move backward and forward as well as up and down. This not only takes care of the shock you get from beneath the wheel—it also absorbs the shock you get in front of the wheel when you're travelling faster than 20 miles per hour.

extra width means easier handling

The big '64 Meteor is a big 80 inches wide. This gives it more natural stability on the road. Handling is much easier at high speeds and you don't have to fight with the car when you're cornering.

Meteor's extra size gives you more room inside

Meteor's extra length and width means that if there are six of you inside, you don't feel as though there are eight of you after you've driven 60 miles. Meteor's extra shoulder and hip room means that you can move around in comfort without having the friend next to you look at you like a stranger on a crowded bus. Meteor gives more than enough leg and knee room for even the tallest people. And the problem of creating low, modern styling with lots of headroom inside is overcome beautifully with the most distinctive roofline of any low-priced car.

strong backbone

The big Mercury frame used for the '64 Meteor is even stronger. A cross-section added to the rocker panel area makes the entire car more rigid. It makes Meteor a "tight" car yet it has the right amount of "give" to absorb road shock.

the nearest thing to air conditioning you've ever experienced

Here's a big advantage that no other low-priced car offers—an optional rear window that goes up and down. Just touch a switch in the heat of summertime and that power-operated rear window goes down to let fresh air flow through the entire length of the car. And in winter it stays clear of ice and snow because it slopes in away from the weather. If windows start to mist in the cold weather, lower that Breezeaway Rear Window just a touch—your problem is solved and you stay comfortable. One more thing about that rear window—it looks like a million.

a big wheel

This year, you can get tires that are a big 8.00 x 14. These give you a much better ride because there's more air between you and the road. And as an extra touch of luxury you can have bright-metal covers for all models. They really look nice.

more power to you

All Meteor engines are more powerful for '64. If you want the ultimate in V-8 performance you can choose between two engines—a powerful 362 cubic-inch or an exciting 390 cubic-inch. If you want extra emphasis on gas economy, take Meteor's energetic "six"—223 cubic-inches. A full range of automatic and manual transmissions is also available.

big new model selection priced with the low-priced three

Whatever your taste or budget—there's a 1964 Meteor just right for you. Meteor Custom models are for people who really want to make it big in luxury—choose the convertible, the hardtop, the 2-door or 4-door sedan. If you want to make it big in all the things that mean extra value in a low-cost family car, then take a 2-door or 4-door sedan, Meteor model. And if cargo space is most important, you really make it big with either the Custom Wagon or the Meteor Wagon in 6 or 9 passenger models.

why is it quieter inside a Meteor?

Insulation is the reason—and there's lots of it! For instance, great thick wads of insulation are between you and the engine. There's lots of it in the roof, doors and hood lid, too. Insulation is inches thick in the floor to absorb road noise. And in all those hard to get at places beneath the car, it's even sprayed on.

big warranty for a big car

The purchase of any car is a major purchase—there's no question about it. So if you buy a '64 Meteor you get a warranty from your dealer that covers the total car. This total-car warranty lasts for 24,000 miles or 24 months whichever comes first—plenty long enough to prove the merit of any car.

Certain features shown or mentioned are optional at extra cost.

Koufax Strikes Out 15 Yanks As Dodgers Grab Series Lead

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP)—Sandy Koufax broke the world series strikeout record Wednesday just 30 years later and apologized to ex-Dodger Carl Erskine after fanning 15 New York Yankees in a 5-2 opening game victory for Los Angeles.

Erskine, now a 36-year-old insurance man in Anderson, Ind., was waiting in the Dodger clubhouse to congratulate the 27-year-old lefty after pinch hitting Harry Bright's last-out strikeout had erased the old record. Erskine set it Oct. 2, 1953, against another Yankee club at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn.

"Sandy sort of apologized to me," Erskine said. "He told me that when he had 14 he thought maybe he had enough. I told him he deserved the record, as long as he kept it in the family."

Koufax conceded it was "a little weak" in the middle of the game and again at the end. He certainly wasn't weak at the beginning when he struck out the first five Yankees, tying a record set by the old St. Louis Cardinal Mort Cooper against the Yanks in 1943.

Nobody got a hit or even a loud foul until catcher Elston Howard singled with two out in the fifth. The Yanks were shut out until left fielder Tom Tresh hit a two-run homer in the eighth.

The Dodgers hopped on Whitey Ford for four runs in the second, three on a home run by catcher Johnny Roseboro, his first off a left-handed pitcher.

Moose Showron, an ex-Yankee, drove in the other two with a pair of singles. Showron knocked in the first in the second and the last in the third. After that early outburst against Ford, the drama of the day for 69,000 fans was reserved for the dying moments.

Second game of world series will be telecast over Channels 2, 5 and 6 and broadcast over CBU (680) today at 9:45 a.m.

In the last of the ninth, Elston Howard was a quick out on a line drive. Joe Pepitone, who had fanned in the third, had a 2-2 count on him.

"I backed out and looked at that guy and said to myself: 'You aren't going to get setting any record with me up there,'" said Pepitone.

Pepitone singled, but Clete Boyer flied out. It came down to Bright, battling for reliever Steve Hamilton.

WANTED RUN

Bright said all he was thinking about was trying to get the tying run to the plate and wasn't even thinking about any record.

So the Dodgers have drawn first blood in this best-of-seven series by beating Ford, the Yankee ace.

When the series resumes this afternoon at Yankee Stadium, it will be another battle of left-handers.

ROOKIE TO START

At Downing, a 22-year-old farmhand moved up from Richmond in June, will work for the Yankees. Downing had a 13-5 record during the regular season.

Johnny Podres, a two-time winner in 1955 when the Dodgers (Brooklyn version) captured their only series, will pitch for Los Angeles. Podres, now 31, had a 14-12 regular season.

NOT DEPRESSED

The Yanks were impressed by Koufax, but not depressed. Manager Ralph Houk agreed that Roseboro's homer was the big blow.

It was extra embarrassing to Ford because it was the first left-handed hitting catcher has hit off a left-handed pitcher all season.

Koufax's total of 15, included Bobby Richardson three times and Tony Kubek, Tom Tresh, Mickey Mantle each twice. He whiffed Roger Maris, Elston Howard, Joe Pepitone and pinch hitters Hector Lopez, Phil Lian and Bright once.

Ford struck out four. Stan Williams five and Steve Hamilton one for a total of 10, making it 25 for the clubs.

GAME SETS RECORD

That broke the old record of 22 set by the St. Louis Cardinals (Mort Cooper) and the St. Louis Browns (Denny Galehouse) in 1944 in the fifth game of the only all-St. Louis series.

Three of the Yanks bunched their six hits in that fifth inning, they could not score until Tresh hammered his two-run homer into the lower left field stands in the eighth.

FORD CLUBBED

This much-advertised duel of ace southpaws disintegrated into a rout when the Dodgers clubbed Ford for four runs in the second.

Frank Howard, the six-foot-seven-inch Dodger giant, started Ford to his downfall with a tremendous double that bounced once and hit the wall in left centre about 460 feet from the plate.

Showron, who hit only .203 after being shipped to the Dodgers last winter after 10 years at Yankee Stadium, singled sharply to the middle. In came Howard with the first run.

Dick Tracewski, a 225 hitter playing second because Jim Gilliam was forced to shift to third to fill in for injured Ken McMullen, followed with a single to centre. Roseboro then ruined Ford with a high fly ball, fair by about 10 feet, that glanced off the facade in right and dropped into the lower stands for a three-run homer.

ANOTHER RUN

Showron helped boost that lead to 5-0 in the third. Gilliam opened with a single to centre but was forced to shift to third to fill in for injured Ken McMullen, followed with a single to centre. Roseboro then ruined Ford with a high fly ball, fair by about 10 feet, that glanced off the facade in right and dropped into the lower stands for a three-run homer.

Jockey Jessop Shows His Class

By JIM TANG

"What's he doing here?" was the reaction of some horseplayers when it was announced that Job Dean Jessop, North American riding champion in 1945, was going to accept mounts at the 1963 meeting at Sandown Park.

It was a fair enough question. Sandown Park is a fine little racing plant but it does not ordinarily expect to get jockeys of the fame of Jessop. It was only natural to wonder what would bring a rider who had been at the top and was still only 36 years of age to Sandown.

There really isn't much to it. Jessop sort of semi-retired from riding to go into business and all the way to win the third.

An to cap it, Jessop took the featured event for the second time in a row on Poca Bayo Rey, winning the race at the clubhouse turn as he spotted an opening on the rail when Milady Pines stayed too wide and drove through to get the lead and again keep his mount running.

BET ROUGH

It's all making things a bit tough for the veteran. Punters are not long in recognizing outstanding riding ability and when they are unable to decide on their choice, they go for whatever Jessop is riding even if the form says it would be all but impossible.

So far, it would have been the right formula. Betting a device on each of Jessop's 41 mounts would have produced a profit of exactly $20. But it's not likely to last. He looks like the best thing at the track and there isn't likely to be any more double figure payoffs unless he tackles a handicap with something like Eternal

Pure or Razmi.

STILL BETTING

The spectacular wagering increase continued yesterday as more than 2,000 fans showed up to eager another $84,541 under perfect conditions for the sixth day of the seven.

That puts the total handle at $884,907 with the 16-day meeting not yet half over and practically assures another record for a meeting.

Didn't Know Answers

DENVER (AP)—Continual

questioning about racial bombings in the United States was the reason for his abrupt flight from London Sept. 18, heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston told a press conference Wednesday.

Liston said: "Everywhere I went, they would ask me over and over: 'What about the Alabama bombing? What do you think of it, Sonny?'"

"I have never been afraid in the ring, but I used to get real nervous when they'd be asking me about the race problem because I just didn't know how to answer them."

Referring to a statement attributed to him at the Denver airport upon his return, that he was "ashamed to say I'm in America," Liston said Wednesday: "That is not what I meant."

Liston said what he meant was: "I'm ashamed of the way America's acting" in the racial bombings.

Hockey Players Pay For Breaking Law

WELLAND, Ont. (CP)—

Bronco Horvath, 33-year-old National Hockey League veteran now playing for Rochester Americans in the American Hockey League, was fined $150 Wednesday after he pleaded guilty to charges of careless driving and uttering a threat.

The charges were laid Aug. 28 when Horvath was apprehended by provincial police in Port Colborne, Ont., following a high-speed, highway chase during which the hockey player was clocked at speeds up to 90 miles an hour.

QUEBEC (CP)—Municipal court judge Emile Morin ruled Wednesday that confiscation of a hockey stick is enough punishment for Toronto hockey players Bob Pulford and Tim Horton.

The two lost $50 each when they failed to appear in court Tuesday to answer charges of disturbing the peace by kicking over garbage cans on Quebec's main street Sept. 22.

Yankees:

Sandy Just Dandy

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees are impressed — and downright awed by Sandy Koufax.

"He has the best curve ball I have ever seen," said Tom Tresh, who accounted for both Yankee runs with his homer in the eighth of the opening world series game won 5-2 by Los Angeles Dodgers.

"When you hit his fast ball, it seems easy. When you don't it seems hard."

NO ADVICE

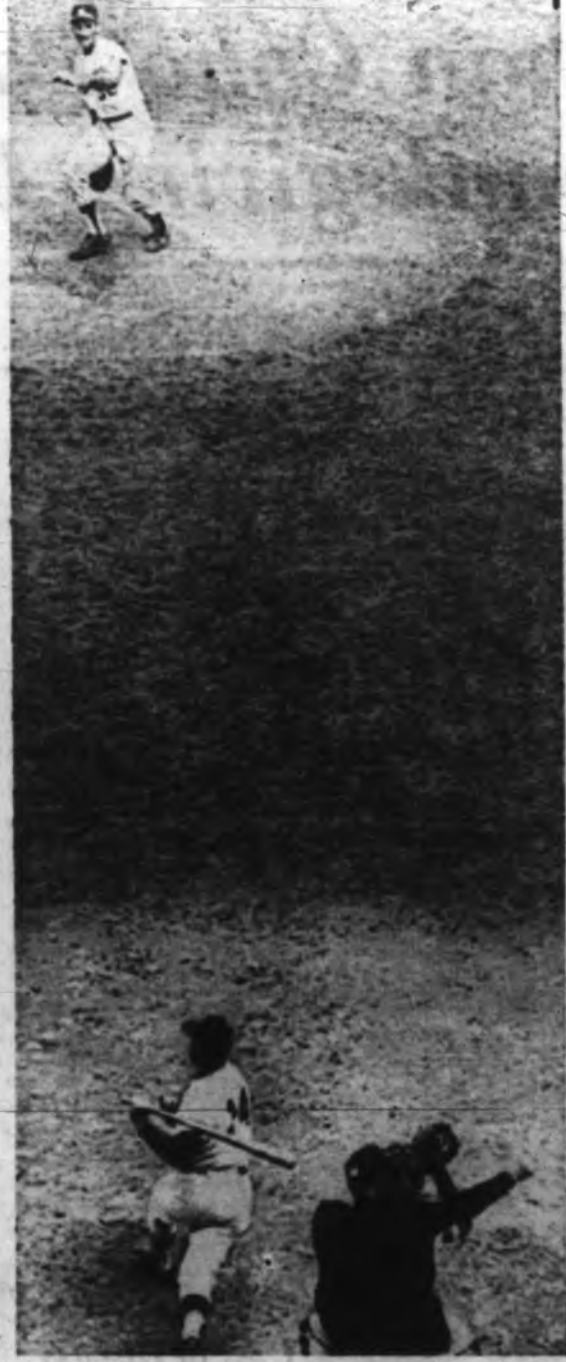

"I thought he pitched real well the whole game," said manager Ralph Houk. "No, I didn't give my letters any advice. I give them credit for knowing what to do. No, they don't make comments when they come back to the dugout after striking out. That's little league stuff. No, they didn't describe what Koufax was throwing. They didn't need to do it. You could see for yourself. No, he doesn't pitch like anyone in our league."

PEPTONE ADAMANT

There was one die-hard, Joe Pepitone, who came up in the ninth with one out and Koufax needing one more strikeout to get a series record of 15.

"I looked out there and I just thought I don't want you breaking any record when I'm up here," said Joe. He got a single to right, but Koufax got his record by striking out Harry Bright to end the game.

Whitey Ford, who started out well but landed in a mess of trouble in the second inning, could not account for what happened.

Record-Setter 'Felt Weak' But Recovered Near Finish

SANDY KOUFAX ... felt weak

JOHN ROSEBORO ... belt high

NEW YORK (AP)—Sandy Koufax conceded something that New York Yankees might never have suspected Wednesday afternoon.

"I felt a little weak," Koufax said after striking out a world series record 15 for Los Angeles Dodgers in their 5-2 victory over the Yankees in the first game.

WEAK AGAIN

"I just felt a little tired in general early in the game," Sandy said. "Then I felt a little weak in the middle of the game. Then I got some of my strength back, but I was a little weak again at the end."

Koufax said he was not aware when he struck out Bobby Richardson in the eighth inning that he had tied Carl Erskine's series strikeout record.

SAW MESSAGE

"It wasn't till I was going out for the last time that I saw the note about the 14 strikeouts on the message board," he said. "I figured I'd like to get one more in the ninth, but I was a lot more concerned about ending the game."

John Roseboro, a left-handed swinger, who hit a decisive three-run homer for the Dodgers in the second, said the pitch, delivered by left-hander Whitey Ford, "was a curve or a slider, about belt high." Roseboro hadn't hit a homer off a southpaw all season.

Bill Showron, acquired from the Yankees last winter, singled his first two times up and drove in the first and fifth Dodger runs.

BEST THING

"This is the nicest thing that's happened to me all year," Showron said. "I finally contributed something." He had batted only .203 and drove in 19 runs.

"I didn't even think I was going to play in the series until I read it in the papers," he said.

ical about being struck out twice by Koufax.

"He only struck me out twice," Mantle said. "Carl Erskine once struck me out four times."

Yanks have tradition going for them. They've won 20 of 27 previous world series and Dodgers have taken only two of 10. Bookies apparently believe it, because Yanks are 7-5 favorites to win today's game.

Yankee pitching coach Johnny Sain suffered a broken jaw Tuesday night when trying to stop a fight that developed when he and some friends from Arkansas were interrupted by strangers while eating in a restaurant.

Some 2,500 fans were lined up to buy 53 bleacher tickets for yesterday's opener, and police had to turn back line-crashers as booths opened.

Glen L. Granfield of Madison, S.D., who held first spot since Monday night, was second man to enter. He gave first place to Robert Stubbs, a crippled New York Negro who arrived at 7 a.m. yesterday.

Hubby Hates Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Estelle Jensen, a Los Angeles Dodger baseball fan, has filed suit for divorce against her husband, Morris S. Jensen, accusing him of being anti-Dodger and with a "violent and unmanageable temper."

Mrs. Jensen, 61, told a Superior Court commissioner she tuned in on a Dodger game on Sept. 2 and her husband of 23 years registered his displeasure by smashing the radio against the wall.

"My wife's a Dodger fan," Jensen, 64, of Santa Monica, explained. "I'm not."

Money Plot Bared

NEW YORK (AP) — A suspected conspirator has described a plot to produce the downfall of Fidel Castro's Cuban government by turning out $50,000,000 in bogus Cuban notes.

Federal authorities said four were involved in the plot, including two who were arrested in Baltimore Wednesday and charged with conspiracy.

They were Robert D. Morrow, 35, an electronics engineer, and his wife, Cecily, 32, charged in an arraignment before a U.S. commissioner.

In New York, authorities identified the third conspirator as Mario Garcia Kohly, 62, of Arlington, Va. He was arrested Tuesday night by Secret Service agents.

U.S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau said Kohly had counterfeited plates to be used in producing 50-peso Cuban notes.

Kohly, in an appearance before U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishop, waived a hearing and was released on $5,000 bail. A warrant has been issued for the fourth suspected conspirator, identified as Bill Evans, of Washington, D.C.

Secret Service agents in Baltimore raided Morrow's home and seized photographic negatives, from which seven sets of plates allegedly were made to counterfeit the notes.

Labor Fails In Politics Unions Told

The Victoria Labor Council has failed to play its part in the political life of the community, Fred Bevis, chairman of the political education committee, said at a meeting of the council last night.

"The council should be more energetic, and labor should keep informed," he said.

A suggestion by Mr. Bevis to have MLAs speak to council members on legislation, and then have the opposition leader give his views, was taken into consideration.

"There should be stated election dates and these should be followed."

"The premier uses his station in calling an election for the convenience of his own party," he charged.

John Nicol, chairman of the education committee, reported that a weekend institute would be held for members Oct. 26 and 27.

Duncan Zoo's Cayman Lizard

... that's his name

No Freak Is the Cayman Despite Odd Appearance

DUNCAN — What easily could be mistaken for a freak of nature is in fact a two-and-a-half-foot Cayman lizard which arrived recently at the Duncan zoo.

The reptile is docile if left alone, but zookeeper Jim Oyen said its powerful jaws could inflict severe wounds.

Resembling a miniature dragon, it has an orange-colored lizard head with a bright green body and a large spiny back like an alligator. This also earns him the name alligator fegu.

Mr. Oyen believes it is the first in British Columbia. It feeds on snails, fish and chopped meat.

Considered to be very rare, the alligator fegu grows to between two and three feet in length.

Mr. Oyen said his specimen was shipped to Vancouver Island from the Tarpon zoo in Florida.

He said the zookeeper there makes regular monthly airplane runs to the South American jungles and the Duncan alligator lizard probably was caught only a few weeks ago.

Enough for This Year

Reds Don't Need U.S. Grain Up to Republicans

WINNIPEG (CP) — The head of the Russian grain board said Wednesday Russia is unlikely to buy any wheat from the United States this year.

Leonid Matveev, chief Russian negotiator in his country's purchase of $500,000,000 worth of Canadian wheat, said in an interview Russia feels it has enough wheat to satisfy its requirements until next summer.

NOTHING FINAL

He confirmed Russia has held preliminary talks with American grain traders in Ottawa but said no final decisions had been made.

"However, we believe we have purchased a sufficient quantity of wheat without having to buy any from the United States this year," he said.

"We will probably just use our present sources this season but it is difficult to predict what we will do next year."

TALKED ABOUT

The possibility of lifting U.S. wheat trade embargoes to the Soviet Union to accommodate a sale has been talked about for days.

Asked about the possibility of Russia buying more wheat from Canada, Mr. Matveev indicated his country would have taken more than the 225,000,000 bushels in the $500,000,000 sale if transportation had been available.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy tentatively has decided to permit the sale of U.S. wheat to Russia but wants Republican leadership approval of the move before acting, an administration spokesman said Wednesday.

Before he announces any such decision, the president is expected to invite Republican leaders of both houses to canvass the situation with him.

Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois has been approached by high government officials to go along. But he said that when the matter was discussed at a party policy meeting Tuesday there was no consensus.

The administration is reported to have been informed that the Soviets are willing to buy $150,000,000 of U.S. wheat for gold. This was some $100,000,000 less than previously had been indicated.

A baker told a western housewife rationing was "on orders." But a customer can still go from store to store to buy bread.

All newspapers carried the blunt news from Premier Khrushchev that this year's grain harvest failed to reach expectations and large quantities of wheat have been purchased abroad.

Aid to Soviets Too, Too, Too?

BONN (UPI) — The West German cabinet decided Wednesday the western world is in danger of helping the Soviet Union "too much too soon for too little" and ordered a study of private German wheat flour sales to Russia.

Death Crash

Youth Says He Told Pal To Take Off

A passenger in the car that carried Neil Kirby to his death July 14 testified Wednesday he had advised Larry Neff, driver of the car, to "take off" after the accident.

Alan Robinson, 19, was testifying at the trial of Neff on two charges of criminal negligence and one of leaving the scene of an accident resulting from the drag race death of Kirby at Tolmie and Maple Streets July 14.

IN BACK SEAT

Robinson told the court he and Kirby were sitting in the back seat of Neff's car when it collided with a car driven by Ruth Kirkpatrick following a drag race north on the Rose Street extension.

Robinson said he was lying half in and half out of the car when it came to rest in a driveway about 100 feet north of Tolmie.

YELLED "TAKE OFF"
"Someone lifted me to get me out of the car, but my back hurt when he moved me, so I told him to let me down. Then I yelled to Larry to take off," Robinson testified.

Barry Neff, 21, testified he had been asked to start the race on the new strip of pavement between Finlayson and Tolmie streets.

CASUAL SUGGESTION
"We were parked in the White Spot at the Town and Country when we decided to have the race," he said. "It was so casual I don't even know who asked me to start it."

"Larry Neff's car was on the east side of Rose for the start, and Ronald Lim's car was in about the middle of the road. I gave the signal to start, and Larry's car got ahead of Ron's car right away."

LARRY KEPT GOING
"Ron's car slowed down and pulled over about halfway to Tolmie, but Larry kept going. I saw Larry's brake lights go on for an instant when he reached Tolmie, and I could hear his engine back off as he took his foot off the gas. I could see headlights approaching, going west on Tolmie," said Neff.

LIGHTS WENT IN CIRCLE
"Then I heard a crash and saw headlights and taillights going around in a circle. I ran back to my car and rushed to the scene."

He said he saw Ronald Lim's car pulled up by a grocery store at the northeast corner of Tolmie and Maple, and saw Mrs. Kirkpatrick lying on the road at the northwest corner. "I couldn't do anything to help, so I left."

NO MPH ESTIMATE
Neff said he estimated Neff's car had reached about 80 miles an hour during the race, and Lim's never got over 50.

Gary Beckley, parked in a car at Tolmie and Maple to watch the race from that vantage point, said he estimated Neff's speed when he went through the intersection at about 40 miles an hour.

ONE CAR ESCAPED
Grant McFarlane, 22, who was also in the car at Tolmie and Maple, said one car traveling west on Tolmie passed through the intersection just before Neff's car got there, but a second car, driven by Mrs. Kirkpatrick, struck the right rear of Neff's car as it sped through the intersection.

McFarlane said Mrs. Kirkpatrick flew out of the car, and he got a blanket to cover her and make her comfortable. He said he then went up to where Neff's car had stopped.

"I saw Neil outside the car and heard someone yell 'You better get out of here, Larry.'"

THREE ON GROUND
McFarlane said he saw three people lying on the ground near the car after it left. He said Kirby was not moving, and one of the youths was trying to crawl.

He said Neff's car was going about 80 miles an hour when it passed through the intersection, but it had slowed just before it got there.

RETURNED TO SCENE
He said Neff returned to the scene on foot a few minutes later, talked to him for a minute, then turned himself in to police.

Mrs. Ruth Kirkpatrick said she was driving west on Tolmie on her way home from work, and could see car lights approaching on Rose Street as she approached the intersection.

KEPT COMING
"The car just seemed to keep coming," she told the court. "I applied my brakes, and the Divert Our Rivers to Prairies?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Reaction here was skeptical yesterday toward a suggested water diversion scheme encompassing the Columbia and Fraser Rivers to serve the prairies.

David Cass-Beggs, general manager of the Saskatchewan Power Corporation, said Tuesday in Calgary part of the Columbia River could be diverted in two stages over the Rocky Mountains.

B.C. and the United States would lose some benefit from a reduced Columbia flow, he said, but this could be rectified with diversion of some water from other sources, such as the upper Fraser River.

He said prairie development would be retarded unless B.C. waters were diverted.

Landis and Forests Minister Ray Williston said in Victoria he would "have to see a lot more information to indicate the feasibility" of a diversion at Golden.

NEW TO HIM
It was a new proposition to him, he said, and "I don't know where you'd pump from or what you would do in the way of a reservoir."

He said more evidence is needed on any retardation of prairie development.

"But the argument seems to be to safeguard the water supply to the future at the expense of B.C. now."

Premier Bennett, asked for comment at a press conference Wednesday, said only: "I made a statement some time ago about that and I don't want to repeat it."

His statement then, in response to concern about future prairie development, was: "Tell Saskatchewan to keep its cotton-picking hands off our resources."

Ken Campbell, spokesman for the B.C. Fisheries Association, said his group is "opposed to diversion of the Fraser River," but added diversion of the Columbia would have "no effect on our fisheries."

Homer Stevens, secretary of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union here, said he couldn't see "any objection" to diverting runoff water from the Fraser to augment the Columbia flow, but he said the union would "oppose any excessive use of Fraser water which would in any way harm our fisheries."

He thought "excessive runoff water could be used to great advantage in Saskatchewan."

Who's in Charge of What? B.C. to Ask Definite Ruling

B.C. is likely to seek an amendment to the British North America Act to clear up constitutional questions arising from the B.C. Electric judgment of Chief Justice Sherman.

Attorney-General Bonner confirmed yesterday that this avenue is being explored by lawyers acting for the government.

The amendment would:

- Clearly establish certain fields of provincial jurisdiction over companies founded upon federal charters.
- Terminate any possibility that the federal government could claim jurisdiction over a company simply because its activities extended beyond provincial boundaries.

Mr. Bonner agreed in reply to questions that a byproduct of the amendment might be to relieve Ottawa of jurisdiction over rates charged by B.C. Telephone Co.

But this was not one of the objects, he emphasized.

HOT AND COLD
B.C. Telephone rates are ruled on by the federal board of transport commissioners. The company's fate cropped up as an election campaign issue when the NDP blew hot and then cold on the possibility of expropriating it.

Mr. Bonner was reluctant to discuss the effect the proposed amendment would have on the company, but did say he could see "no good reason why telephone rates should be regulated by Ottawa."

PRINCIPAL OBJECT
The principal objection of the amendment, he continued, would be to "clarify that a Dominion-incorporated company is not in any different position than a provincially-incorporated company with respect to the provincial law."

It would not interfere with traditional jurisdiction over all companies in such fields as import tariffs, etc.

FORMER OWNERS
The Lett judgment ruled that a province could not expropriate the assets of a federal company such as the B.C. Power Corporation, former owners of the B.C. Electric.

It also cited the BNA as the source of its conclusion that only Ottawa could regulate a company whose activities were extra-provincial in nature. B.C. Electric, it pointed out, had power and transportation links with the U.S.

Strike Foes Beaten

HANOVER, Ont. (CP)—Three brothers heading for work at a strike bound plant were ambushed by five club-wielding assailants on a back country road-way here Wednesday.

Police said five men blocked the brothers' car, dragged them from it, beat them into submission and then drove the car over an embankment. Five men were later arrested and charged with assault causing bodily harm, police said.

WORST YET
They described it as the worst incident since a 4½-month strike against Hanover Kitchen (Canada) Limited erupted into violence in this town 25 miles south of Owen Sound last week.

Later company general manager A. E. Starke accused the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) of deliberately inciting riots and acts of violence.

The youngest of the brothers, Lorne Koenig, 21, was treated for a broken wrist and scalp wounds. Jack, 28, and Earl, 22, escaped with minor injuries.

The big difference lies in Gillette's special churning, boiling action... leaves drains fast-running, clean and sanitary. So keep your kitchen sink a safe place to wash food and dishes, your bathroom basin and tub immaculately clean... by putting 2 tablespoons of Gillette's Drain Cleaner in every drain, every week!

A GREAT COMBINATION FOR A DELICIOUS MAIN DISH... Next time you want a hurry-up meal for your family, try this recipe starring easy-to-use Monarch TEA-BISK. The fluffy, golden topping is so quick and easy to make with Tea-Bisk and always turns out just right!

CASSEROLE CAPRI
In a 1½ quart casserole combine 1 lb. of condensed vegetable soup, 1 lb. of hot or cold green beans (drained) and 1 lb. of ground beef hamburger which has been browned and drained. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Cover with Tea-Bisk topping following the easy recipe on Monarch Tea-Bisk package. Bake in 400 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Serves 4 to 6.

I THINK YOU'LL AGREE that one of life's pleasures is a wash that comes clean — really clean — from the washer. Well, there's an easy and inexpensive way to achieve this with the wonder-working CALGON water conditioner. Just add it to your wash water, with less of your favourite soap or detergent, and to the rinse. Linens will gleam... colours come up bright... towels fluff up like new... regain their natural softness. This is why washer instruction booklets recommend Calgon. Yes, the pleasure of a really clean wash will be yours when you use Calgon!

THERE'S NO NEED TO LET YOUR WORK SUFFER because of rheumatic, arthritic or neuritic pain. This letter tells you why — Mr. Francis Smith of Vancouver writes, "I have suffered a great deal from lumbago. I am a carpenter and the pain made it hard for me to bend or stoop. I have tried everything and have found that nothing compares with Templeton's TRC's for quick and satisfactory relief." Do try TEMPLETON'S TRC's if you suffer in this way. And for even faster, DOUBLE ACTION relief, apply Templeton's FLAME-cream Liniment (in the handy, roll-on applicator bottle) externally, when you take TRC's internally.

DID YOU KNOW THAT sauerkraut is a vegetable with a long, long history? It was known in China as far back as the Third Century B.C. And now, in the Twentieth Century, we Canadians can buy it at its best... in time labelled Libby's. Yes, I know you'll agree that sauerkraut is cold, LIBBY'S SAUERKRAUT is the best there is... always crisp, mellow and uniform in flavour. I enjoy it in many ways... served hot with meat or in casseroles... or cold in salads and sandwiches. High in appetite appeal and low in cost, no wonder it's a Canadian favourite!

Violinist Opens Concert Series

By BEST BINNY

Violin recital by Esther Glazer at Oak Bay Junior High School last night before a large and appreciative audience gave the Victoria Musical Art Society's 1963-64 concert series a capital sendoff.

Esther Glazer's playing is crisp and bold but she also has the capacity to provide most fluent melody. Her virtuosity was best displayed in Bach's sonata No. 3, which is written for the violin alone.

MODERN ITEMS
The program included two modern items and two classical, with Charles Ives' Second Sonata being of particular interest.

The second modern selection was Notturmo and Tarantella by Szymanowski, said to be Poland's greatest composer since Chopin.

Beethoven's 7th sonata completed the program and was thoroughly enjoyable.

NOT TOO LOUD

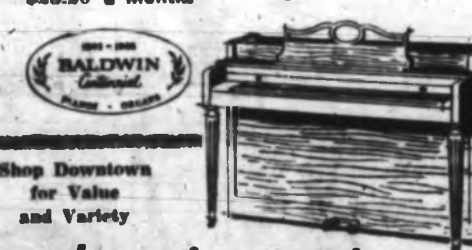

The accompanist was Frances Adeskin, undoubtedly a top-notch pianist but, last night, sometimes rather too loud.

Next concert is Nov. 6, featuring soprano Erika Kurth, pianist, and harpsichordist Neville Haddock, oboist Woodford Garrigue and clarinetist Barry Mocur.

Garden Notes

Hoarding Geraniums

By M. V. CHESNUT, FERN

Quite a few of the letters coming across my desk these days are from folks who want to know how to keep their geranium plants safely through the winter. Geraniums are coming more and more to the fore lately for use in planters, window boxes, hanging baskets and as bedding plants, probably because well-grown geraniums keep on blooming all summer long, and such non-stop performance is quite unique among our ornamental plants.

Geranium plants are expensive to buy, however, and their cost would be prohibitive if you had to buy fresh stocks every spring. Hence the interest in saving the plants to be used over again next year.

If you have a heated greenhouse, the procedure is quite simple; you take cuttings from the old plants, pull up the old ones and leave them over the back fence, and grow the cuttings through the winter to make new plants for setting out next spring. Such vigorous young plants grown from slips are far superior to overwintered parent plants.

The best cuttings are of young but well ripened shoots—firm, short-jointed growths detached from the parent stem—but at a pinch you can use almost any portion of the plant except very soft, flabby shoots with long bare intervals between the leaves. Make your cut immediately below a leaf, three or four inches from the tip. Strip off all the leaves except the top ones. Moisten the cut end, dip in a hormone rooting powder such as Rootone or Seradix, shake off any excess powder, and insert around the edge of a clay pot filled with equal parts peat moss and vermiculite.

You can get anywhere from three to seven slips in a flower pot, depending on its size, so this method does not take up a great deal of room on the greenhouse bench. Keep the peat-vermiculite mixture just barely moist, never sloppy wet, for geranium cuttings are very susceptible to rot diseases. When well rooted, pot up in sandy loam soil and grow in full sun with not too much warmth, and soil maintained a little on the dry side. This combination of full sun, cool air and dryish soil makes for a compact, short-jointed plant vastly superior to the lanky, tall specimens pampered in warmth.

If you don't have a heated greenhouse, and where only a comparatively few geraniums will be needed next spring, you can follow this method of taking and rooting cuttings, growing the rooted slips in a sunny window of a cool room. The enemies to fear are frost and damp and too much warmth, and if you can get around these, you're home free.

The limitation of this method is, of course, the shortage of sunny window space, and only a limited number of plants can be kept growing through the winter. Most of my correspondents seem to want some method of storing the parent plants in the basement in a dormant condition, as they would store dahlia tubers or gladiolus bulbs. I must make it very clear that there is no method, to my knowledge, whereby unrooted geranium slips can be stored through the winter. The parent plants can be stored, although results, by and large, are not too satisfactory.

Choose a dry day when there is no moisture on the plants, and dig up the plants with a small ball of soil around the roots. Cut off the sappy portion of the top and most of the leaves, shortening all side shoots by about half their length. Plant close together in a box of soil and store in a very cool basement, preferably where there is a little light from a cellar window. Give no water at all through the winter unless the plants show signs of shriveling, then give only enough to barely moisten the soil. The idea here is to keep the plants barely alive but not making any growth, holding them back through the combination of low temperature and lack of water.

ART BUCHWALD Writes Cosa Nostra Synopsis

Opera Stars Meistersinger

WASHINGTON—As part of National Culture Week, Washington held the premiere of a new Italian opera entitled Cosa Nostra. It was commissioned by Robert F. Kennedy.

The opera stars baritone Joseph M. Valachi, acknowledged by critics to be one of the greatest singers of our time. Maestro Valachi wrote the libretto as well.

Because the National Cultural Centre has not been built as yet, the opera was given in the Senate caucus room before a packed throng of opera lovers.

Consider themselves a "family" and take vows in blood to protect their way of life from outsiders who would cause them harm.

As the opera, Valachi tells of his love for Vito Genovese, his boss of all bosses. In the opening aria he reveals that he has loved Vito for 30 years, and Genovese was even best man at Valachi's wedding.

He says he would do anything for Genovese. A chorus of Senators asks him what he means by anything and Valachi replies he would kill for Genovese and has.

Then Valachi relates how he meets Genovese in prison, and in a flashback we see how Genovese turns against him.

Valachi and Genovese sit on Genovese's bed and Vito tells him how one apple can spoil a barrel. Valachi says he doesn't know what Vito means, so Vito gets up and kisses Valachi on the cheek. Valachi kisses Genovese back on the other cheek. The lovers separate.

Valachi realizes that Genovese has decided that he must die. He tries to find out why the death sentence has been passed on him and he discovers Genovese thinks he has sung a song. Singing is forbidden by the Cosa Nostra despite the many fine voices in the "family."

Then Valachi is in the prison yard. He sees a man he thinks is going to kill him, so he goes free.

Heartbroken, he goes to the warden and says he didn't mean to do it. The warden, moved by his beautiful voice, spares him and in gratitude Valachi starts singing again.

First he sings to the Department of Justice, then he sings to the New York cops, then he sings to the Illinois Crime Commission, and finally he sings to the Saturday Evening Post.

He is warned that if he ever stops singing they will let him go free.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Exit Liz, Enter Eddie

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Oh, to be in England, now that Elizabeth Taylor is in Mexico. So says Eddie Fisher, who is arranging a series of concerts in London and the provinces to start when he concludes his present Las Vegas engagement.

Bob Hope paid $17,000 for a golf range and sold it recently for $1,000,000. That's our Robert. Everything he touches is blonde or golden with two notable exceptions, Dorothy Lamour and his wife.

Guadalupe Page's new husband, Rip Torn, is the new dream boy for NBC-TV brass. They loved him in the third show of The Lieutenant.

Rhonda Fleming slipped for New York businessman Fred Astaire on his recent stop-over in Beverly Hills. I hope Dana Wynter likes New York, because husband Greg Bastner will be spending a lot of time there on business. Dana, has been visiting her family in South Africa.

Billy Rose's ex-wife, former film starlet Joyce Matthews, sent a plane ticket to Joyce Christopher, to fly to Lausanne, with a bundle of new wigs. And now they say that Billy will marry Doris Vidor, widow of Charles.

Stacey Faltier is hoping his Berlin film festival winner, Lilian of the Field, will be shown in Birmingham, Ala. In the movie, Sidney befriends five refugee nuns from behind the iron curtain. And feels the film would do more to better race relations than all the meetings.

Robert Preston can thank his death scene in All the Way Home for his fast reconciliation with his wife. When Cay saw Robert lying in his coffin, she burst into tears, dashed to the telephone and said, "Come home, and I mean all the way."

The Claudette Colbert-Cyril Richard comedy, The Irregular Verb To Love, panned by most of the critics, is doing business on the strength of the two stars. But for how long, is open to question. Claudette's last Broadway play lasted one night, and I am beginning to believe that when a star actress reads a play that is a tour de force

EDDIE FISHER

BOB HOPE

... to tour England ... par for the course for her, regardless of what it is for anyone else, she will sign on the dotted line. Lucille Ball fell into this trap with Wildcat. And Anne Bancroft with that dreadful thing she came in with last season.

I refuse to believe the rumors that Rosemary Clooney and reconciled husband, Joe Ferrer, are battling again. If they break up this time, it would be for keeps.

Jane Allen was saying that she has decided she will not marry that handsome barber of Beverly Hills. She will never get another Dick Powell, and that's for sure.

What movie actress keeps playing the hit song, As Long As He Needs Me, over and over again? And what movie actor is fed up with the repetition?

He Listened to His Own Advice

By Dr. STUART E. ROSENBERG

We are all quite expert at making decisions for which we ourselves bear no responsibility. We are particularly good at giving advice to others—especially when we have not been asked or consulted.

The most difficult personal task, however, is to be able to decide responsibility for the shape and direction of our own lives. And to stay with our thoughtful decisions—and not run away.

Some years ago, a British professor, Dr. James M. Macintosh, sat down in his 40th year to write himself a letter that was not to be opened until his 65th birthday. Here is what he wrote:

"I think you may profit by a few words of friendly advice. Certain undesirable tendencies in your character and outlook are already apparent. I have little doubt that they will become more marked as you grow older.

In the first place, you will become more talkative. Do try to curb this fault because it is an early sign of unwillingness to learn from younger people. Try to be a good listener as you grow older. It is well worth your pains.

Secondly, do not get suspicious of people and their motives. Avoid especially prying into the affairs of young folk even on the plea (for self-justification) that you can help them. They have to live their own lives. They have their souls to keep.

The main practical thing to remember is that you are now 65 and on the point of retirement. For heaven's sake, retire—and do not persuade yourself that you are a special case. If you have kept mind and body active, a world of new interests lie before you.

If not, then you have no business clinging to office or any other service to which you are attached. Clear out. Do not rationalize by saying you want to see this thing through."

When, in fact, this professor did reach his 65th birthday, he did not forget to open and read the letter he had addressed to himself 25 years earlier. Then he again took pen in hand, to reply.

His response: "I retire at 65, and that's that! I am not a special case. It has been such fun since you wrote!"

Not, everyone can afford to retire at 65. But all of us can afford to aspire — to decide rationally what we should be and what we should do. And if we'd spend more time talking to ourselves — and listening to our best selves — we'd waste less of ourselves talking about others.

Sheep Folds

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Black Sheep Club, a members-only bar and café, was shared Tuesday by two bookkeepers claiming $1,000 in back wages. Yvonne Schander, 22, and Patricia Lee, 26, appeared with a court order, a lawyer and a moving van—and interrupted the luncheon trade by carting off the bar fixtures, the money in the till and about everything else movable.

Ex-Enemies Face Off

BONN (UPI)—Six thousand Canadian soldiers, forming the Fourth Canadian Infantry Brigade group, will face off against the Third German Armored Brigade from Oct. 5-10 in a realistic combat manoeuvre in Lower Saxony designed to test the nuclear and non-nuclear readiness of both, it was announced Wednesday.

Perrault Sees Sacred Rift

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal leader Ray Perrault said Wednesday it is common knowledge in Victoria that at least four Social Credit backbenchers are openly and bitterly critical of Premier Bennett. "The premier had better keep his back to the wall because he was elected with the support of goodtime Charles who will turn on him at the slightest sign of weakness," Mr. Perrault said here. The Liberal chief, who retained his North Vancouver seat in Monday's provincial election, was commenting on Premier Bennett's statement Tuesday that opposition party leaders, including Mr. Perrault, are on shaky ground with their own followers. Mr. Perrault said he had heard no talk that he should step down. He added: "If anyone wants to challenge the leadership, let them do so." He also said the premier's statement was "just another effort by him to weaken the opposition."

'Blackjack' Murder

EDMONTON (UPI)—A death Saturday became murder Wednesday when a medical expert said transient Alexander Gerry Cook, 42, was hit over the head, probably with a blackjack. Police said there are few clues and no trace of companions of Cook. He died soon after his arrest for intoxication.

Mountie Drops Addict Pose

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police have rounded up three suspected drug peddlars and issued warrants for three more after an RCMP constable dropped his undercover role. Charged with trafficking in heroin are John Ray Morgan, 35, and John Ivers, 22. Joseph Levesque, 40, is charged on two counts of trafficking in barbiturates. Morgan and Ivers appeared in magistrate's court Wednesday and were remanded to Monday. Bail was set at $5,000 each. Levesque will appear today.

A fourth man charged with trafficking is already serving three years for possession of heroin. The officer, whose undercover work touched off the arrests, is Const. G. A. Ripley. He posed as a drug addict.

Senior Citizens

Panhandle Site
For New Homes

A $250,000 senior citizens' housing unit approved last week by Saanich council will be built in the Saanich Panhandle in the spring of 1964, a spokesman for the Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society said yesterday.

Low rental housing with better than average facilities for senior citizens is the goal of the non-profit society which has operated the 26-suite Bainfield Lodge on Styles Street since 1957.

The Saanich Panhandle project will be a 35-suite, single and two-story structure on 1.36 acres of land owned by the society on the north side of Townley, between Shelbourne and Richmond.

TWO BLOCKS

There will be 24 bachelor suites and 14 one-bedroom suites for married couples in two two-story blocks connected by a single-story containing a lounge with kitchen, hobby workshop, rest room, laundry and storage room, office, waiting room and telephone booth.

For the convenience of the elderly tenants there will be no steps at the front entrance and no basement in the building. Suites will be heated by thermostat-controlled electric heating, and tenants will be asked to pay their own heat bills.

GENERAL MEETING

People interested in supporting the society during the expansion program were invited to attend a general meeting which will be held at Spencer House, 1951 Cook Street, at 8:15 p.m. Monday.

The society has already received 24 applications for accommodation in the building which is to be constructed next spring, through its office at 643 Broughton Street, said a spokesman.

DVA Hospitals 'Slipping'

Glassco Commissioner Criticizes Staff Quality

Quality of resident staffs in veterans' hospitals across Canada has slipped from a former high and is gradually declining further, a doctor said in Victoria last night.

Dr. John McCreary, dean of the faculty of medicine at University of B.C., told an audience of doctors he had found domiciliary care for many DVA hospital patients was better.

He was one of several doctors appointed by the Glassco commission to look into federal health and hospital services two years ago.

The Glassco report last winter recommended closure or curtailment of DVA hospitals which should then be integrated into general hospital services.

"DVA hospitals should go back to their original job—caring for the pensionable veteran who now only makes up 10 per cent of all DVA hospital's occupants," Dr. McCreary told the annual meeting of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of B.C. in the Empress Hotel.

He said he chose to talk about the Glassco report to explain why some of the controversial decisions had been reached by his colleagues and himself.

He said the only alternative to keeping up with the increasing demand would have been more DVA hospitals: "By 1960, we'll need double the number, then it'll drop off to nothing."

In the early stages of the DVA hospitals—which are occupied by 8,500 across Canada—medical research was often pioneered until "quality slipped."

He said 70 per cent of the occupants in DVA hospitals were elderly men, mostly veterans from the First World War.

Explaining other "unpopular decisions" of the Glassco report, Dr. McCreary:

● Said he felt the sooner Indians could be integrated back into the body of general medical care the better. He was referring to the Indian and northern health services in Ottawa.

● Said there was a tendency to "build hospitals as cheaply as possible" because only 15 per cent of costs are provided federally toward construction, while 50 per cent is provided federally for the running of hospitals.

● Said he found "a lack of regional planning" for hospitals.

$500,000 from Ottawa

City May Borrow for Hall

Victoria may apply for a loan from the federal municipal development fund to cover the $500,000 cost of providing new city hall accommodation.

The final decision on whether to make the application to Ottawa, through the provincial government which will administer fund from this end, rests with the Centennial Square committee.

It is likely, however, that the city hall section of the $2,000,000 project, on which construction is scheduled to start within a few weeks, will be covered by an application.

A city hall spokesman said Wednesday that use of federal loan funds would have the effect of reducing interest rates to approximately two per cent.

Ratepayers last December

Grasshopping Planners

But officials here claim that to do so would mean that efficient and well-organized municipalities would receive no assistance for projects contained in any form of capital budget. Meanwhile full benefits would go to "grasshopping" financial planners.

A letter from J. D. Baird, deputy inspector of B.C. municipalities, was received at city hall yesterday. It informed the city that the provincial government had accepted responsibility for administration of the fund in the same manner as it shares in the winter works grant plan.

Mr. Baird said municipalities can take advantage of the loan plan while still receiving benefits of winter works grants.

The letter also said the government was prepared to consider provisional approval of projects submitted at this time in cases where a ratepayer vote was planned for December.

Only the renovation of the police station on Fisgard is likely to be voted on in the city this December and it has not yet been decided whether to apply for a federal municipal loan for the job which is still in the early planning stage.

Don't-Walk
Too Fast?

City traffic officials have been asked to look into the timing of downtown pedestrian "wait-walk" signals.

Several aldermen said yesterday they've heard the "don't walk" signal flashes too soon and there have been "rumblings" from merchants and shoppers that the signals make it difficult for pedestrians to get around the downtown area.

It's Goodbye
To Hall Home

By IAN STREET

William Baxter is only one of the scores of civic employees who are busy this week making final preparations for the move to temporary city hall quarters in the old courthouse at Bastion Square.

But he is more personally involved because for the past 10½ years Mr. Baxter and his wife have made their home in city hall itself.

There will be no resident janitor when the present building is remodelled into modern municipal offices. Mr. Baxter won't be required to live in the temporary city hall either, because the courthouse has been renovated to include automatic oil furnace and fire alarm system.

Similar Protection

Similar protection will be provided in the new municipal offices and the new city hall to be built at the rear of the present building.

Everywhere in city hall cartons loaded with papers and odds and ends of equipment are piling up. An elaborate system of color-coding and numbered tags will ensure that furniture, file cabinets and cartons go to their correct destination.

No Home, Cash, Job—and No Luck

By JURGEN MESSE

No home, no money, no job, and another child on the way—that and a pension of $76.00 for a family of nine is what the Williams have been up against since April.

When fate struck, it struck with fire, death and poverty.

Before the day in April when their possessions and house on the Ahousat reserve near Tofino burned to cinders and their youngest daughter Gloria, 10 months, died as a result, they had managed to get along.

Today they live in squalor in Victoria.

They need furniture, clothes, food and, above all, a little bit of luck for a change.

Father Frank Williams, 40, a veteran of the Black Watch regiment, was wounded during the Second World War in France and has been in and out of Veterans' Hospital to undergo one operation after another.

Mother Johanne Williams is six months pregnant.

Mr. Williams is desperately trying to send his two oldest boys—Frank, 15, and Harry, 14—to high school.

"We want them to get better jobs and a better future," Mr. Williams said.

After they lost everything they had, the commercial fisherman found he couldn't stay at Ahousat reserve for lack of a home, so they packed up and went to the State of Washington to pick berries.

Even there, bad luck stayed with them—somebody stole a great part of the clothes given to them earlier by the Victoria Indian Arts and Welfare Society.

Now Mr. Williams has been told by his doctor not to work because of the old wound. And he should go back into hospital for another operation.

"If I can get a home here and get the family settled and the kids back to school—then I'll go to hospital, not before," he said.

Word last night was that the city social welfare department had obtained a home for the Williams family. But they cannot move in unless they have furniture.

Greater Victorians wishing to donate furniture, dishes, pots and pans or clothes should get in touch with Miss E. P.

Tervo at EV 3-0279. She is secretary of the society.

The house for the Williams is located at 448 Moss Street.

How does the Indian family take its burden?

They are as far down as any family can get, but they are not out.

Yesterday Mrs. Williams was sitting in a Victoria hotel room on one of the three beds the family of nine has to sleep in.

"We are starting right from the bottom again," she said. Suddenly, a resident of the same hotel stuck his head in the door and beckoned to the children, handing them five pieces of pastry.

"I'm sorry I don't have enough to go around," he said. The other five children—David, 2, Johnny, 4, Georgina, 5, Celestine, 7, and Wilma, 11—played in the dingy hotel corridor with the happiness of children who don't notice misery—much.

Medically, Mrs. Williams is being looked after by the city health nurse and a VON nurse. But unless many help the Williams family, their eighth child will be born into a life hardly worth living.

Marjorie Kent, who lives in Toronto when she isn't travelling and calls Halifax home, is in Victoria this week. And she is bewailing the fact she doesn't know anyone to take her fishing.

Her one hobby is fishing. She is just as keen on river and lake fishing as she is about salt water trolling.

Part of her interest in her hobby is centred on equipment. She has it all with her except a creel and rod. They are a bit too large to pack in a travelling bag.

A light weight nylon fishing jacket is her pride and joy. I know because she modelled it for me in her room at the Imperial Hotel. The sleeveless jacket slips over heavy clothing and boasts four front pockets, one with sheep's wool cover for holding flies. An extra pouch at the back to hold a creel can be slipped off when not needed.

Priced almost as much as a mother of pearl knife in the shape of a fish complete with "fin" blades.

Marjorie, who is representative of a leading cosmetic firm, is sure proof an outdoor life needn't mean a leathery skin. She is a light redhead with a corresponding fair skin.

"I just use a moisture cream and lots of super oil lipstick and never worry at all," she says. "I can really burn—blister and all if I don't use this protection."

She also has advice for those who do get a bad burn. "Never, never wash burned areas. Smoothing on a soft cleansing cream and finishing with a milky freshener will ease sunburn faster."

Marjorie is naturally very enthusiastic about the cosmetics she represents. She will be in a downtown department store today until Saturday to give personal advice and attention to those seeking it. In the meanwhile she's still wishing about fishing "even for a couple of hours."

Medical wives were feted at a fashion show and luncheon in the Ingraham Hotel Wednesday afternoon, while their husbands were busy at the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association convention being held in Victoria this week. Pictured

Housewife Loses If She Falters

CHICAGO (UPI) — If the American housewife hesitates in the supermarket, she may be lost.

The average shopper passes 3,000 items in 12 minutes and must decide whether to buy a product in 1-30 of a second, according to Clarence G. Adams, executive vice-president of the National Association of Food Chains.

Adams told food editors at the American Association of Newspaper Representatives food store customers are confused by an almost overwhelming array of new items.

"One recent study revealed that from 2,000 to 2,500 new items have been added to the average supermarket's inventory in the last 10 years," he said.

He said legislation proposed by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., to correct abuses in labeling and packaging would not solve the problem.

Fish rolls in rich tomato sauce makes tasty supper dish.

Savory Fillet Rolls Easy on Food Budget

The budget-wise cook casting about for a combination of elegance and flavor in her fish dishes could do no better than this—handy fish fillets and a rich sauce made of canned tomatoes, real money-savers. Bake the sauce with the fish, as recommended, and for convenience this will be a dish hard to beat. Skinless fillets treated with herb butter are best for this method of preparation.

FISH FILLETS IN SAUCE

1 to 1½ pounds fish fillets
¼ cup soft butter
3 tablespoons minced parsley
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
¼ teaspoon salt
1 can (7½ ounces) tomato sauce (approx. 1 cup)
1 tablespoon butter
¼ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt

1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon minced onion

METHOD

If frozen, let fillets thaw on refrigerator shelf until easily separated. Cream is cup butter until fluffy; blend in 3 tablespoons minced parsley, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1 teaspoon lemon rind and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cut fillets into serving-size pieces. Spread a tablespoon of herb butter mixture on each piece. Roll up, fasten with toothpicks. Place rolls well apart in shallow, well-greased baking dish.

Prepare savory sauce by combining tomato sauce and remaining ingredients. Pour around fillet rolls. Spread tops of rolls with rest of herb-butter mixture. Bake in preheated oven, 425 degrees F., 15 to 20 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Remove toothpicks; serve hot fillet rolls with Savory Sauce. Makes three to four servings.

Sweetbreads Delicious When Properly Prepared

By BASIL FITZGIBBON

Sometimes I think that some of the variety meats are overlooked because people don't know just what the item is or because of the nomenclature, e.g. oxtail, brains, liver, kidney, etc. Just how to convince the skeptic poses quite a problem: sometimes it can be done using recipes which somewhat disguise the meat but often I think it can be done by explaining just what part of the animal is involved.

Sweetbreads, for example, are frequently misunderstood and to clarify the situation here is a description: It is the culinary name given to the thymus of calf or lamb. This organ which is situated at the top of the breast is divided into two parts, one which is round in shape and the other which is more elongated and less regular. The meat is white and rather soft, and they are considered to be the most delicate products of butchery.

BASIC PROCEDURE

Recipes are numerous but in every instance a basic procedure must be followed before cooking: Soak the sweetbreads in water until they are white, trim and clean and place in a good-sized saucepan, cover well with cold water, add salt and lemon juice.

Place the pan on high heat and stir frequently. At the first sign of boiling, remove the pan and place under the cold water tap. Allow the cold water to run until the sweetbreads are cool. Drain and check for any membrane or tissue which were overlooked on the first cleaning. Now the sweetbreads are ready for use in any good recipe and here are two standards:

BRAINED SWEETBREADS

(Will serve six.)
Three pairs sweetbreads (prepared and cut into bite-size pieces), 3 tablespoons butter, 1 onion (sliced), 1 carrot (sliced), 1 bay leaf, pinch of thyme, 3 sprigs parsley, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ cup dry white wine, 1 cup chicken stock, salt and freshly ground pepper to taste, 2 tablespoons dry sherry.

METHOD

Preheat oven to moderate (350 degrees). In a flameproof casserole, melt the butter. Add the onion, carrot, bay leaf, thyme and parsley and cook slowly until the onion is golden. Sprinkle the mixture with the flour; add the sweetbreads, wine, stock, salt and pepper and heat to simmering. Cover and transfer to the oven. Bake 20 minutes. Uncover and bake 10 minutes longer. Transfer the sweetbreads to a platter. Stir the sherry into the liquid in the casserole and strain over the sweetbreads.

SAUTEED SWEETBREADS AND MUSHROOMS ON HAM

(Will serve six.)

Three pairs sweetbreads (prepared), 5 tablespoons butter, ½ pound mushrooms (sliced), 6 slices cooked ham (about ½ inch thick), 2 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups chicken stock or consommé, ½ cup heavy cream, 1 egg yolk, salt and paprika to taste.

Cut the sweetbreads into bite-size pieces. Melt three tablespoons of the butter in a skillet, add the sweetbreads and mushrooms and cook until brown, about six minutes.

While the sweetbreads are sauteing, place the cooked ham slices in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) and heat thoroughly. Melt the remaining butter in a skillet, stir in the flour and blend until smooth. Gradually add the chicken stock.

Beat together the cream and egg yolk, and add slowly to the sauce. Cook, stirring, until thickened and smooth. Add more cream or stock if the sauce becomes too thick. Season with salt and paprika. Arrange the ham slices on a platter, cover with the mushrooms and sweetbreads and top with the sauce.

Bon appetit!

Three Ingredients In Happy Marriages

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Boy looks for girl. Boy meets several girls, thanks to Irving Field. And boy usually falls in love with one of the girls and settles into the happy state of matrimony.

"I don't close a case without results," declared Field, who calls himself the dean of New York's marriage brokers.

"This is a matrimonial agency," said Field, "not a lonely hearts club. Arranging dates as such is not my job. These people who come here have tried on their own every where (to meet a marriage prospect) without success. They come from all walks of life, all ages. I match up mutual backgrounds. It's got to click."

"Loneliness at some time strikes everybody," said Field. Field estimated he has arranged an average of 100 marriages a year and said that so far as he can determine in a quiet follow-up the couples have been "contented for life ... no divorces."

The marriage broker, born in Poland, said more than 90 per cent of his "customers" are recommended by former clients. And many of the young women for whom he's found a mate who was registered by the girl's parents without her knowledge.

Field said he interviews each prospect in depth—with casual chat at first, because many callers are nervous and often a bit embarrassed at being there. But as they grow more at ease, he begins to take notes on personality, job, salary and other financial aspects, age, education, appearance and religion.

He said his clients these days are about evenly split among the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religions. But he will not match-make differing religions.

"I personally don't approve of mixed marriages," he said. "And when there are children, it often is a pity for them because they don't know where they belong."

The facts on every client are cross-filed so that if, say, a bachelor in his 30's, successful, but still searching for the one, will be introduced to eight or 10 young women with a background Field feels will fill the bill.

Field said in his opinion any happy marriage—arranged or otherwise—has these ingredients: Love-respect, so interwoven that you cannot list each separately; comparable intelligence; and mutual background.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-age boy who wants to say something to that loud-mouthed kid who said he didn't see any sense in honoring his parents just because they happen to be older. He said his parents are stupid jerks and so are the parents of most of his friends.

I don't have any parents to honor, but if I did I would honor them plenty. My dad was killed in an accident when I was 11 years old. He was the greatest guy who ever lived. I was only 35 when he died but I'm thankful I had 11 years with him.

My mom died last summer. I don't think the ache in my heart will ever go away. She was a truly wonderful woman.

So please, Ann Landers, print this letter so other kids can see it. Let them know they are blessed if they have their parents. And tell them for me that if they are smart they will honor their parents while they are still on this earth. I wish I was so lucky.

—FIFTEEN AND ALONE.

Dear Fifteen: I wouldn't attempt to add a single word to what you have written. Thank you, son. I wish you were mine.

Dear Ann Landers: A good friend of ours has taken up painting as a hobby. She says it is much cheaper than psychoanalysis and it is doing her twice as much good.

Yesterday she brought over an enormous canvas, expensively framed. It looks like a bull ape from one angle and an abandoned copper mine from the other. It could be hung upside down or sideways and no one would know the difference. She had the nerve to say it was her impression of me. My wife couldn't stop laughing.

I don't want to hang the monstrosity but my wife says it would be a terrible insult if we didn't hang it — especially after she went to the trouble of having it framed especially for our living room. If you think this is a gag let me assure you it is not. I would like your frank opinion.—B. D. O.

Dear B. D. O.: The picture sounds like a great conversation piece and I hope you will hang it, at least for a while. A sense of humor is what separates man from bull apes and copper mines.

Dear Ann Landers: May I have just a few inches of your valuable newspaper space to get across a point I had to learn the hard way? It is simply this: The wife who chews at her husband, nags and criticizes him will surely drive him away. No wife ever got love or attention by demanding it.

I married at 19—and there was no greener, more stupid, more self-centered girl in the world than I was. My husband was an attractive, somewhat serious type who was struggling in the academic field. I felt he was not paying enough attention to me and I accused him of being unfaithful.

I kept him up late at night, questioning, arguing and attacking. He seldom answered, nor did he attempt to defend himself. One day he quietly told me that I had completely destroyed his love for me and suggested that I file suit for a divorce. I was certain he had another woman (I was wrong) and we split up.

Now eight years later I am 30 years wiser. I'm about to marry a perfectly wonderful man and this time I am going to make a home a comfortable and delightful place to be. A place where he will find joy, contentment and peace.—LESLION LEARNED.

Dear Lesson: Thanks for sharing your experience with us. Yours is a letter which should be clipped and referred to often by young wives who are having husband trouble.

Birth Control Clinic Opens in Portland

PORTLAND (AP)—Oregon's first birth control clinic opened in Portland Wednesday, with a volunteer staff of trained medical personnel.

Mrs. Charles Fosterling, president of the Planned Parenthood Association of Oregon, Incorporated, said at least one doctor and two nurses will be on hand at all sessions.

The state public welfare commission had its first chance to exercise new policy regarding birth control. It decided last week to refer persons on welfare to the birth control clinic if they expressed interest.

No public funds are connected with the clinic.

Mrs. Fosterling said she has no idea what the response will be.

SHOW SATURDAY

Unity Chapter, No. 84, O.E.S., will hold a fall bazaar and millinery fashion show, Saturday, Oct. 5, from 2 to 4:30 p.m. in the Goldstream Masonic Temple, 679 Goldstream Avenue, Langford. Everyone welcome.

A staff of 22 physician-specialists and 20 nurses will serve the clinic on a rotation basis. Mrs. Fosterling said. Three or more will be on duty during clinic hours.

Contraceptives and consultation will be provided on an ability-to-pay basis. The Roman Catholic-approved rhythm method also will be explained. A Catholic spokesman told the welfare commission last week the church would not object if persons who asked about the clinic were sent there.

Leading British Model Prefers Brains

Daily Colonist Victoria, B.C., Thurs., Oct. 3, 1963 27

By NORA MARTIN

PARIS—"Beauty and brains go together more often than not," said the tall, good-looking Englishman.

We were speaking of models. And the young man with whom I had this conversation was 29-year-old David Stuart, who could be called a "cover-boy." David himself says he is a "male model" and "the man behind the girl" in fashion and advertising photographs.

Having many times talked and worked with women models, I was curious to learn more about the other side of the picture where, on those photographs, a usually tall dark and handsome man provides an attractive — and desirable — background.

David Stuart arrived in Paris from London just four months ago. And with the "British look" much in demand now, at least for men, he hasn't stopped working for French, German and American fashion magazines. David loves every minute of his busy life, including the French food and the French girls.

"French girls," he told me, "are, certainly the most attractive and most feminine in the world. Mind you they are not always beautiful in the classic sense. But they do know what to do and how to present themselves."

Modelling has now become an international profession for females as well as males since top magazines do not hesitate to fly their models all over the world to take pictures in new thrilling surroundings. And David has worked with girls of many nationalities.

"American girls are glorious. But too often," he said,

"they are not themselves, trying to copy the looks of some celebrity. British girls can be lovely. But they have been told too often to 'be feminine' and they seem to believe that it is feminine to be very bright. French girls are sharp and that is a great part of their attraction."

Speaking of himself, David told me that, being born into a theatrical family, he became an actor and also worked on television programs in England which helped him much in his present modelling work.

"Men tend to feel self-conscious when modelling," he explained. "But in this profession, rule number one is to be natural."

"Now the trend is that fashion photographs should look like amateur snapshots. Needless to say that this 'natural casualness' takes hours in the studio and under the spotlights."

"The 'pretty boy' type and the knocked-out-of-silter positions are no longer in fashion either. Photographers want male models to look red-blooded and with everyday faces. But it does help to be tall."

This grey-eyed young Englishman is six-foot-two and doesn't have any struggle diet-wise with his elegantly slim physique. When posing with the long-lashed swan-necked girls he can set his handsome face into an enigmatic smile or an adoring glance with no trouble.

In Paris, David gets $20 for one hour's work and being most days fully booked he is quite happy. Yet modelling is according to him, one profession where top model girls still can get higher fees than even the best male models.

Like the girls, the male models too must lug around their "props" — various accessories, suits, shoes, shirts, etc., to be able to change at five minutes' notice.

3 great '64 Ramblers

One of them will suit you better than any other car you've ever owned...Read why

It's really quite simple.

Unless you're looking for a car that will go 180 miles an hour—or one that will give you 50 very uncomfortable miles to the gallon—or a $13,000 (plus chauffeur) limousine—the new car you're after falls into one of three basic categories.

The first of these is the car built primarily for economy. This should be a low-priced car that doesn't cost much to operate, with plenty of hip-and-leg room, and power enough to make highway driving fun. It's a perfect description of the all-new 1964 Rambler American (the car that started the compact trend).

Then there's the popular-size, popular-priced car. The important thing about a car in this category is selection. If you're looking for operating economy and low purchase price... or luxury and performance... or something between the two...

the right car in this popular class will give you exactly what you want. The Rambler Classic—with its economical 6, powerful V8, wide choice of interiors and wide range of options—is just that kind of car.

The third category is the out-and-out luxury car—with the performance, interiors, and extras that set young men dreaming of the day they'll own one. This, beyond any doubt, is the Ambassador V8. No other car in Canada offers a more luxurious interior. Few cars made have a better power-to-weight ratio, few cars give better performance.

To make your new car the best car you've ever owned, however, takes more than the right size and performance at the right price. It takes value; the value that is a natural result of Rambler's "maximum usefulness to the user" philosophy.

This philosophy has made the following famous features standard on every car in the Rambler line: exclusive Uniside construction for greater strength and beauty; the world's best rust-proofing; guaranteed Ceramic-Armoured muffler system; guaranteed battery and coolant; curved-glass side windows; battery-saving alternator; self-adjusting Double-Safety brakes; reclining seats; 3-year or 30,000-mile lubrication; 2-year or 24,000-mile warranty on the entire car.

890-2 Door Hardtop

990-4 Door Station Wagon

Luxury

Inside and out, the 1964 Ambassador V8 has luxury that is unsurpassed by cars costing much more. A padded wrap-around dash curves gracefully into the doors, new wood grain inserts add distinctiveness to instrument and door panels. There's a wide choice of rich fabrics and leather-finish materials with reclining bucket seats available on all models. Powerful 250 or 270 hp V8 engines are available in the 1964 Ambassador to give it an excellent power-to-weight ratio for exceptional performance.

Parliamentary Battle Near Over Seat Redistribution

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—A parliamentary battle is shaping up over the redrawing of boundaries of Canada's electoral districts.

All four political groups in Parliament are on record in favor of giving the job to an independent commission instead of having Parliament continue to do it.

The government plans legislation to set up such a commission.

But there are two main areas of potential political strife.

One is the yardstick that would be used as the basic unit of population for a constituency and the instructions to the commission on how closely it must keep to the measurement.

The second is the loss of parliamentary seats some provinces would experience under present constitutional requirements.

Nova Scotia and Quebec stand to lose one seat each, Saskatchewan four, Ontario would get three more and Alberta and British Columbia two more each.

Other provinces would have the same number as now.

LOSS HARD TO TAKE

The prospect of losing seats is bound to be unpopular to the provinces concerned. And where there are gains, a number of rural ridings probably would be replaced by urban or suburban seats if electoral boundaries were redrawn to reflect the widening gap between town and country population.

In recognition of the dissatisfaction that would follow such radical seat reductions, study is being given to the possibility of increasing total Commons membership to 268 from the present 265.

Another reason for the disparity is the reluctance in past of parties and individual MPs to have boundary changes that might hurt their chances in future elections.

Redistribution must take place on completion of the census taken every 10 years. The 1961 census was completed in June, 1962, not in time for Parliament or an independent commission to tackle the long redistribution job before either the June, 1962, or April, 1963, elections.

Often-Bitter Fighting

In past often-bitter fighting over proposed new constituency boundaries has been resolved only by the governing party using its parliamentary majority to shape the electoral map.

In line with its view of what is fair, Opposition parties sometimes suspected that what was fair in the eyes of the majority was what hurt them the most.

FIGHT OVER RULES

This was one reason cited by all four parties in agreeing to adopt the commission idea. This system is used in most other Commonwealth countries and has been in operation in Australia for 60 years.

But when it comes to setting the ground rules for the commission the parties will be right back on the battleground.

Broadly speaking, the Progressive Conservatives and Social Credit demand most of their present Commons strength from rural or suburban ridings.

Just how hot the fight will get depends on the extent to which the parties are ready for remoulding city and country ridings to balance the value of their votes.

An example of the present situation is in Quebec where almost half the province's voting population elect only 21 MPs from Montreal Island while the remaining half elect 54.

In Ontario, almost one-third of the voting population elect only 18 MPs for Toronto and its suburban York ridings while the remaining two-thirds elect 67.

Key factor in the government's legislation to set up a commission will be the basic unit of population for an electoral district and how far the commission will be permitted to stray from the figure.

At present the basic unit is about 71,000 population. But the extent to which it has been ignored at times is illustrated by the fact that tiny Iles-de-la-Madeleine in Quebec with a population of 12,479 elects one MP while the Toronto suburb of York-Scarborough with a population of 267,252 also elects one MP.

The Conservatives proposed legislation for a redistribution commission which would have permitted a 33-per-cent variation from the basic unit, with an even wider variation in particular circumstances.

Experts say variations of that extent tend over a long period to perpetuate the disparity between town and country votes. But the disparities are already so great that even variations of that size would still radically alter most Canadian constituencies.

Australia's commission is allowed a variation of up to 20 per cent and in practice rarely goes above 12 per cent. New Zealand is even more strict, setting the maximum at 10 per cent.

It is widely predicted that actual redistribution in Canada will occur at the earliest in June, 1967, possibly too late for the next election. The reason is that approval of the legislation is unlikely before next March. Then the commission will have to be appointed and undertake the drawn-out job of actually redrawing boundaries.

In New Zealand the commission has the last word and its final boundary map becomes law. In Australia the proposals are submitted to Parliament which may not amend them but may refer them back for another look.

Premier Bennett said yesterday the finance department has approved construction of a new provincial museum in Victoria—but don't expect to see the construction crew on the site next month.

He said approval, of course, was predicated on the completion of the plans.

How were the plans coming? Public Works Minister Chant said his department was working on them but couldn't predict when they would be finished.

His department was working on a completion date for the building sometime in 1967.

"It would only take about a year and a half to build," he said.

Preparing the plans is an extremely complicated job, he went on. Members of his staff may have to tour other museums around the country for ideas.

The museum is slated to be built in a civil service parking area immediately east of the legislative buildings.

Settlers Cleared Of Death Counts

COCHRANE, Ont. (CP)—The jury returned "no" bills against three counts of non-capital murder, were cleared Wednesday by a grand jury of the Ontario Supreme Court when

Stiffer Terms Asked

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia attorney-general's department is seeking stiffer penalties for three men who pleaded guilty to theft charges in a $500,000 Loomis Armored Car Service robbery here.

An appeal was filed Wednesday asking the Court of Appeals to increase the three-year penitentiary term given former Loomis guard Douglas John Brown, the two-year term to William John Grant and the 18 months received by Jerry Raymond Peterson.

City prosecutor Stewart McMoran said the Crown will appeal on the grounds the sentences in the May 19 robbery were "insufficient in the circumstances of the case;" that the terms ordered were not stiff enough to deter others and that the sentences do not provide adequate protection to the public.

The $500,000 picked up during collections from supermarkets was stolen by Brown from the Loomis headquarters. All but $20,000 has been recovered.

The settlers were also cleared on charges of rioting.

But "true" bills were returned against three of the men on a joint charge of possessing offensive weapons.

All 20 had been charged with non-capital murder in the shooting deaths of three striking union bushworkers at Benson Sidings, 37 miles west of Kapuskasing, during a violence-ridden strike against a lumber company last winter.

The loggers were shot when a small army of striking bushworkers raided a camp being maintained by independent, log-cutting settlers whom the strikers suspected of cutting wood for the lumber company in defiance of the strikers' boycott.

Three bushworkers were killed in a hail of gun fire as provincial police vainly tried to prevent the men from entering the independent settlers' camp.

Outside Interests

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (Reuters)—The charge d'affaires of "a non-European embassy" here has been exposed as contact man for a call girl ring in Copenhagen, a police vice squad official said Wednesday.

It was learned that a protest will be lodged through the Danish foreign minister, together with a request that the man be recalled immediately.

The official refused to say from which embassy the man came.

Third of Population Under 15 Years Old

OTTAWA (CP)—The number of persons under 15 years of age at June 1 in Canada was 6,398,500, slightly more than one-third of the estimated 18,894,000 total population, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Wednesday.

In a breakdown of age groups, the bureau said that 11,054,300 Canadians were in the 15-64 working age group and 1,442,200 were in the retirement group, over 65.

The total population had increased 3.6 per cent since the June, 1961, census, but the increase for children under 15 years of age was slightly less at 3.4 per cent. The increase was slightly larger in the two other groups, 3.7 per cent.

Among provinces, the biggest rate of increase for children under 15 was in Alberta.

Navy Admits Ship Damage

Pylon Blasted In Fraser Valley

ABBOTSFORD (CP) — Bomb damage was discovered Wednesday night under a power pylon on a main British Columbia Hydro transmission line carrying power to the Vancouver area.

Nobody's Talking

Nine Negroes Shot In Gang 'Rumble'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — An apparent gang "rumble" erupted Wednesday night and nine Negroes were wounded by shotgun blasts from a moving car.

There was no racial connection to the shootings, police said. Negroes were believed to have fired the shots.

The shootings occurred at two separate locations. Two persons were shot in the first incident.

Five minutes later and 11 blocks away, seven Negroes were wounded.

Officers said the victims apparently knew who the assailants were but refused to tell. Police said they believed it involved gang warfare between the 31st Street gang, 23rd Street gang and the Leeds gang.

PELLET WOUNDS

The seven victims injured in the second incident were sitting on a porch and most received shotgun pellet wounds in the legs.

All nine were taken to hospital. Spokesmen said none was seriously wounded.

Carnage Left By Hurricane

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters) — A United States naval pilot flying medical supplies to hurricane-shattered Tobago island told Wednesday "scenes of carnage" where at least 30 persons died.

Capt. Joseph Dimsen flew the first U.S. airlift of medical supplies and a three-man medical team to the island, lashed by the 140-mile-an-hour winds of Hurricane Flora Monday.

The mercy flights continued as U.S. forecasters warned that the northward moving hurricane had become a menace to other Caribbean areas.

ANGRY EDITORIAL

The Evening News in an editorial calls for better hurricane reporting facilities to be set up by British, French and Dutch authorities in the area as complaints grow that Tobago had not received adequate warning of the storm's coming.

The London Lloyd's insurance agency confirmed Wednesday that the Tobago death toll was at least 30.

U.S.-Canada N-Pact To Remain Secret

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons Wednesday defeated by a vote of 105 to 91 the motion of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that the government make public the Aug. 16 Canada-U.S. nuclear custody and control agreement.

The Liberals were joined in defeating the motion by four Social Credit members: leader Robert Thompson, A. B. Patterson, Fraser Valley, Bert Leboe, Cariboo, and H. A. Olson, Medicine Hat.

Everybody Congratulates, Nobody Castigated Smiles Fly Past Premier's Posies

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett held his first capital press conference since Monday's election yesterday and opened it by happily shuffling through a thick wad of congratulatory letters and telegrams.

He got over a thousand, he said, as he played peek-a-boo with reporters through a dense thicket of floral bouquets sent to him by well-wishers.

It was a goodwill press conference.

The premier was beaming. For the first time in weeks he castigated nobody.

At one point he started to say something about Tory leader Fulton but caught himself just in time with, "No, no, I won't say that."

Were any of the telegrams non-congratulatory? a reporter asked.

"No, no," said the premier, or if there were his efficient staff had culled them out.

One telegram was from Liberal leader Ray Perrault, he said. Social leaders Robert Thompson and Reel Caouette had also sent messages.

party—it takes two wings to fly."

He said he was happy with the election because it gave him a strong mandate and a strong opposition as well. He wouldn't want anything like 50 of the 52 legislative seats.

He hoped his government would last as long as the Alberta Social Credit government — 28 years so far and still going strong.

Still smiling, he said he wasn't having any part of an $80,000,000 highway approach system which Vancouver would like to see connected with the existing Lions Gate Bridge and the sister-span which the premier promised before the election.

He would build the bridge but the throughways are out as far as the government is concerned. They would spoil Vancouver and they aren't necessary anyway, he said.

He also made it crystal clear he isn't going to force any merger of municipalities in B.C., particularly in Greater Victoria.

"We'll never force that on them," he said.

YOUTH HELD IN SLAYING

By BOB PETHICK

City police are holding a 15-year-old juvenile in custody in connection with the investigation of the George Down murder case.

Police Chief J. F. Gregory said last night no charges had been laid.

The juvenile, who was picked up by police in Victoria on a routine check early Sept. 25, had escaped from Brannan Lake industrial school. It was discovered he was driving a stolen car.

He was questioned about his movements and it was learned he was in Victoria at the time of the Down murder, Chief Gregory said.

The youth was escorted to Penitentiary last Saturday by two city plainclothesmen assigned to the case. Chief Gregory said statements had been taken from the youth in the presence of his parents in Penitentiary.

The youth, in handcuffs, was returned to the city police station and taken to the detective office yesterday evening after spending three days in the interior with the police, who were working with Penitentiary RCMP.

Chief Gregory said further inquiries would be made on

Boys Sought

Crippled Girl Set Ablaze

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police and school officials sought two boys Wednesday who were said to have set fire to an eight-year-old crippled girl's clothes Tuesday, causing burns over 80 per cent of her body.

The girl, Cathryn Reeves, crippled by polio, wears braces on her legs and could not flee her tormentors.

"I saw her burning. I saw the flames, so I ran to her and patted out the fire with my hands," said Mrs. Clotilde Raul, a neighbor. She knew the boys only as Robert and Alvin. Three boys—two 10-year-olds and one seven—were questioned.

Nancy Earnheart, 8, the only witness, said she was standing above the wooded area where Cathryn was playing.

"I saw two boys with matches and I saw them throw something at this little girl," Nancy told police.

Reds' Capitalist Orgy Floating Flop

By DAVID WILLEY

TUNIS — The sleek white Soviet cruise ship Litta is dominating the sunshine along the North African coast, and the Red Chinese are howling a capitalistic orgy is taking place on board.

The Litta holds a mixed cargo of international jour-nists, mainly from the Soviet bloc, who are holding a floating conference. Several communists have joked heavily that a Chinese submarine was tailing the liner.

The Red Chinese boycotted the junket and, in a document circulated in Algiers, asked how a luxury Mediterranean cruise was possibly going to help the "struggle of the people."

They accused the Russians of wooing western journalists with vodka, caviar and "other pleasures," which the comrades were not adverse to sharing with "decadent western imperialists."

Despite the charges, the cruise has been a rather dull affair. It has been somewhat enlivened by the bubbling presence of Alexei Adhubel, Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law and editor of Izvestia.

a variety of colorful sport shirts which contrasted favorably with the rather drab cruise-dress of most of his comrades.

He also led a lot of hearty singing and at the ship's concert proceeded to conduct a vigorous cruise song composed by the Soviet delegation.

There were gallant attempts at organized jollification. "Let's organize a swimming and diving competition," exhorted one poster. This seemed rather over-optimistic, since the ship's swimming pool only had three feet of water in it.

The "other pleasures" darkly hinted at in the Chinese document turned out to be fairly innocuous. The pretty girl stewards on board danced rather staid foxtrots and polkas with the East European delegations, and couldn't seem to "get with it" when the African journalists started to sway to the rhythms of the three-piece band which accompanied the cruise.

New Road To Crofton Endorsed

NORTH COWICHAN—Council yesterday afternoon decided to endorse the Crofton Ratepayers' Association's request for an alternate road from the Trans-Canada Highway at its junction with Mount Sicker Road to Crofton.

The department of highways will be advised of the council's stand. The ratepayers in a letter said the present route is overloaded by heavy traffic.

The road, they added, is narrow, winding, in poor condition and not fit to carry the large lumber carriers and chipper trucks.

MORE TRAFFIC

With the large construction at the Crofton pulp mill, the taxpayers feel much more traffic can be expected in the near future.

Reeve Donald Morton said he sympathized with the ratepayers' request.

On another plea from the same group, asking for lights at the junction of the Trans-Canada Highway with the Crofton and Mount Sicker Roads, council decided to apply for lights to the department of highways.

Council in general agreed the junction, being in a 60 miles an hour zone, poses a threat to motorists trying to make left turns into Crofton Road.

PROBLEMS

Other problems brought to council by the Crofton ratepayers included the dump, quoted as being "in a shocking condition," and urgent need for a sewer survey in that area.

The latter will be dealt with at the municipal election in December, when a bylaw will be put before the Crofton people.

Commenting on the dump problem, Coun. Mrs. Elaine Dobbins said she could not agree with the dump being in a shocking condition but she said people dump refuse indiscriminately.

Coun. Gerry Smith said similar problems exist at the Herd Road dump and Coun. Tony Staples told council the crews make regular trips to all dumps in the municipality.

Coun. Smith said it's the ratepayers themselves who create the unpleasant situation and council will consider the erection of signs to encourage people to dump garbage properly.

Harry George Bradshaw will be paid $22.08 for two pedigree four-year-old Suffolk sheep he lost to marauding dogs. The total loss he estimated at $40 and the municipality pays two-thirds of the total from the sheep protection claim.

Council accepted the bid of $1,020 from Charles H. S. Saunders for a two-acre parcel of municipal land in the Chemainus district.

A sale price minimum was set for lots at Crofton in the Chilco Road area at $900 per lot.

A recommendation from the municipality's peace officer was approved and "30 miles an hour unless otherwise posted" signs will be erected at the intersection of the Trans-Canada Highway with River and Henry Roads.

Council accepted the $15,290 bid for a rubber-tired loader submitted by B.C. Equipment. Coun. Staples said it was the lowest tender which met all the requirements.

A tender for widening two bridges on Canada Ave., totaling $4,097 and submitted by Brownsey and Son, was approved.

Coun. Staples said the acquisition of a new brush cutter was "money well spent" and many taxpayers commented favorably on the clean-cut sides along the roads in North Cowichan.

Coun. Staples also recommended study of a new type of cold mix for roads by the Incoming public works committee. He said the new material, which has been tried in Quebec, was originated in Sweden and proved to be very elastic.

Reporting on the new $3,500, 600 Cowichan District Hospital, Coun. Mrs. Dobbins said working drawings have been well received by government officials in Victoria and the final approval of the drawings is expected in the near future.

She said the officials were impressed by most of 43 recommended improvements. Speaking on a recent meeting of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, Mrs. Dobbins said, "There is no place in this health region for apathy, indifference or ignorance as to health conditions."

The problem of large volumes of chlorine gas being used at the Crofton pulp mill was brought to the attention of the council.

At a recent meeting of the fire prevention committee Crofton Fire Chief G. Vye had said although the chlorine gas is not a fire hazard, it is highly poisonous.

The fire chief, greatly concerned with this problem, said if one of the storage tanks should burst it would mean the evacuation of certain areas.

Members of council said they feel the operators of the Crofton mill, B.C. Forest Products, take all necessary precautions and the mill has a very good safety record.

VANCOUVER—Lieutenant-Governor Paquette opened a $300,000 wing of Anglican Theological College at UBC.

Nanaimo Council to Purchase Lots on Inlet

NANAIMO—City council recently decided to purchase two lots fronting the controversial Commercial Inlet.

'Nanaimo Ice and Cold Storage Ltd., owners of the land, have agreed with the city to a price of $5,000.

As a condition of purchase the city will dedicate a portion of the area for street purposes.

The purchase is part of plan to develop Commercial Inlet. Other property involved in negotiations is that of Kneen Building Supplies on which the city holds an option of purchase until December.

Ald. MacDonald recently said that the area would be greatly improved and there are no plans to touch Piper Park or the Bowling Green.

Future plans are to add boat floats for pleasure and fishing craft and landscaping, added Ald. Parker.

NANAIMO—City council publicity chairman Haig Burns Tuesday reported a total of 2,237 registrations at the Tourist Bureau during the summer season.

Fifty per cent were from the United States and the balance from various parts of Canada, the British Isles and foreign countries. Last year 30 per cent of visitors were from California.

Tour of logging operations and other Island attractions, arranged by Mayor Pete Macleod this past summer, was reported of great interest to the bureau and other participants and it was felt that an operation of this kind would be a great attraction to visitors to the Island.

tal Health Association this month.

CHEMINUS—Lumber exports from Chemainus and Crofton ports in September this year remained about the same in comparison with exports during the same period last year.

September exports in 1963 were 11,054,000 board feet, and the September, 1962, total was 11,617,000 board feet.

Exports during August this year amounted to 16,232,892 board feet.

Biggest importer in September.

ber, 1963, was the United States with 9,101,000 board feet.

The United Kingdom took 735,000 board feet; Puerto Rico, 637,000 board feet; Australia, 481,000 board feet, and Spain, 100,000 board feet.

Pulp exports to various countries was 6,491 tons during September, 1963. In the same period last year it was 8,653 tons, and in August this year, 7,217 tons.

DUNCAN—The Crofton Art Group will hold its 9th annual fall art show at the Crofton parish hall, Oct. 25 and 26, from 2 to 9 p.m., said Mrs. Mae Worth.

About 20 members of the group will display their work. At last year's fall show 66 pictures were displayed.

Panhandle Site For New Homes

A $250,000 senior citizens' housing unit approved last week by Saanich council will be built in the Saanich Panhandle in the spring of 1964, a spokesman for the Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society said yesterday.

Low rental housing with better than average facilities for senior citizens is the goal of the non-profit society which has operated the 36-suite Benfield Lodge on Styles Street since 1957.

The Saanich Panhandle project will be a 38-suite, single and two-story structure on 3.36 acres of land owned by the society on the north side of Townley, between Shelbourne and Richmond.

TWO BLOCKS

There will be 24 bachelor suites and 14 one-bedroom suites for married couples in two two-story blocks connected by a single-story containing a lounge with kitchen, hobby workshop, rest rooms, laundry and storage rooms, office, waiting room and telephone booth.

For the convenience of the elderly tenants there will be no steps at the front entrance and no basement in the building. Suites will be heated by thermostat-controlled electric heating, and tenants will be asked to pay their own heat bills.

GENERAL MEETING

People interested in supporting the society during the expansion program were invited to attend a general meeting which will be held at Spencerhouse, 1851 Cook Street, at 8:15 p.m. Monday.

The society has already received 24 applications for accommodation in the building which is to be constructed next spring, through its office at 643 Broughton Street, said a spokesman.

'Y' Cagers Lay Plans

Meeting of the Victoria Basketball Association will be held tonight at the YMCA starting at 7:30 p.m.

Any teams wishing to play this year are asked to have a representative on hand, and any others wishing to take part in any capacity are invited.

Roberta Aided Again

Quick action of city bus driver Gunter Viewig, 50, of 2799 Wark, sped Roberta Powell, 11, of 1048 Pandora, to hospital in bus after she was scalded Tuesday. Educational 'Vision' Seen In Albernis PORT ALBERNI—The school board's vision for the future of education in the Albernis was shown to district administrative staff, members of the press and radio by trustee R. D. White at a dinner gathering in the Chandelier Room Tuesday evening.

"We hope to build a teaching staff second to none in the province, one of which the area and the profession can be proud. We want to provide the best educational atmosphere in this district," Mr. White said.

He told of plans for a 16-room junior secondary school. "We intend to make it one of B.C.'s best," Mr. White declared.

Thirty elementary classrooms will be required in the next two years, without taking into consideration facilities for special classes. A program is required to overcome neglect of Alberni District Secondary School. The board is interested in expansion of vocational services in the district.

These were among the points brought out by Mr. White, who, as head of the board's public relations committee, acted as host for the evening.

Hospital Area

Nanaimo Debates Land Bids

NANAIMO — Three bids on city-owned land adjoining the present hospital site were the main topic of last night's meeting of the hospital board and city council.

Architects of the hospital 4 and recommended the 4.4 acres of land be acquired by the hospital if the board plans to enlarge its present establishment.

LETTER RECEIVED

At the same time, the Nanaimo Council of Women said it felt any sale at this time may be premature and a letter has been received to this effect.

The city may replan the land around the hospital and may allocate 2.5 acres of a five-acre parcel at Grant and Dufferin Streets if required by the hospital.

DOUBLE FIGURE

The hospital serves a population of about 40,000 at the present time and expects that number to be doubled within 20 years or less.

Future plans therefore are to develop the present building to its full capacity to accommodate 400 beds for which it was originally designed.

FIGURES GIVEN

In addition there would be accommodation for 41 rehabilitative and 81 psychiatric beds, a nursing home to house 187, a 650 car parking space, housing for 10 interns, another building to house 100 nurses and technicians, a school of nursing and a residence for graduate nurses.

The hospital site originally consisted of 19.9 acres acquired from the city and has since been allotted a further six acres for parking facilities.

WIDE VARIETY

The three bids considered by city council were Nanaimo Regional General Hospital, $4,400; Evans Finlayson Parsons Ltd., on behalf of Nanaimo Private Hospitals Ltd., $35,000; Hummel and Warren on behalf of Lyburn Private Hospitals Ltd., $35,192. Decision of the meeting was not known at press time.

Spade Club Helps

NANAIMO — Handicapped children will benefit from a recreation hour to be held every Saturday morning throughout the winter season.

The enterprise will begin Oct. 5 at the Gyro Youth Centre here with Ted Woolford in charge of the program.

The project is the work of the Nanaimo Spade Club, a group of young people who devote their time to helping the young handicapped of this community.

President Dianne McKay and vice-president Susan Evans told of the work their club was doing at Tuesday's meeting of the Spades.

Alligator Fegu

...that's his name

No Freak Is the Cayman Despite Odd Appearance

DUNCAN — What easily could be mistaken for a freak of nature is in fact a two-and-a-half-foot Cayman lizard from South America which arrived recently at the Duncan zoo.

The reptile is docile if left alone, but zookeeper Jim Oyen said its powerful jaws could inflict severe wounds.

Resembling a miniature dragon, it has an orange-colored lizard head with a bright green body and a large spiny back like an alligator. This also earns him the name alligator fegu. Mr. Oyen believes it is the first in British Columbia. It feeds on snails, fish and chopped meat.

Considered to be very rare, the alligator fegu grows to between two and three feet in length.

Mr. Oyen said his specimen was shipped to Vancouver Island from the Tarpon zoo in Florida.

He said the zookeeper there makes regular monthly airplane runs to the South American jungles and the Duncan alligator lizard probably was caught only a few weeks ago.

Dutch Beat the Rain

By KLAUS MUENTEE

They don't have to wrestle land from the sea as people do in their homeland of windmills, but Dutch-born father and son, Engel and Henry Huisman do have to rescue their land in Westholme Flats from the winter rains.

To do this and make their fields workable earlier in the spring, the Hollanders have created their own polder, or artificially-drained pasture.

The younger man, in his thirties, and his father at the age of 65, followed the principle used for centuries in Holland to win new land and about two years ago, they became the first polder builders on Vancouver Island.

The farm supports 38 milkers, mostly Holsteins, some crossbreeds and three Guernsey cows.

The result of their venture is very apparent and, except for the rainy season which leaves the flats under a regular water blanket every year, the land can be "dried out" very quickly.

The young bachelor said the polder is very simple but requires a lot of work.

The large field is bordered by small dykes and the water is drained through small canals into a hole from where it is drawn by a 2,000-gallon per-minute pump.

The father-and-son team feels farming in Canada is less complicated than in Holland, but both feel the ingredients which make good farmers are pretty well the same all over the world.

Island Rural

They say, "no matter in what country you farm, if you want to make money you have to work hard, look well after your cows, take care and improve the pasture land and make good hay."

For them farming is just as simple as that, and, mainly because they come from farming stock, the hard work they have to put in to shape their enterprise to their liking looks easy.

However, one person who makes things easier for them is Engel Huisman's wife who dominates the old-country style household in the log house on top of the hill overlooking the green expanse of pastures.

The story of the three Huisman's adventure in this country is as old as Canada herself, and is somewhat different to the usual immigrant tale.

Dutch province of Groningen to visit two sisters who had ventured to the New World a year earlier.

Filled with enthusiasm, Henry returned and soon the entire family, including his 84-year-old grandmother, found a new home on Vancouver Island.

The old lady died four years ago, but she did not mind living in the new country.

Henry and his father love the nearness of Mount Sicker beyond the Trans-Canada Highway, which cuts a straight line through the valley, but Mrs. Huisman still misses the wide-open vastness of Holland's countryside, especially in the fall and winter when the rains drench the soil and the mountains seem to be closer and more melancholy with their dark forests.

Still in accordance with their old country idea of intensive farming, their cow pastures are utilized to the greatest extent and their system enables them to use the grazing fields five times a year.

After the cows have finished one field, the rest of the grass is cut off, the field treated with manure and soon another lush crop is ready for grazing.

Their sense of good farm management is something bred into them for generations, and their soil-consciousness is as important to the Cowichan district as is their farm's high productivity.

No Home, Cash, Job—and No Luck

By JURGEN MEASE

No home, no money, no job, and another child on the way—that and a pension of $76.00 for a family of nine is what the Williams have been up against since April.

When fate struck, it struck with fire, death and poverty.

Before the day in April when their possessions and house on the Ahousat reserve near Tofino burned to cinders and their youngest daughter Gloria, 10 months, died as a result, they had managed to get along.

Today they live in squalor in Victoria.

They need furniture, clothes, food and, above all, a little bit of luck for a change.

Father Frank Williams, 40, a veteran of the Black Watch regiment, was wounded during the Second World War in France and has been in and out of Veterans' Hospital to undergo one operation after another.

Mother Johanne Williams is six months pregnant.

Mr. Williams is desperately trying to send his two oldest boys—Frank, 15, and Harry, 14—to high school.

"We want them to get better jobs and a better future," Mr. Williams said.

After they lost everything they had, the commercial fisherman found he couldn't stay at Ahousat reserve for lack of a home, so they packed up and went to the State of Washington to pick berries.

Even there, bad luck stayed with them—somebody stole a great part of the clothes given to them earlier by the Victoria Indian Arts and Welfare Society.

Now Mr. Williams has been told by his doctor not to work because of the old wound. And he should go back into hospital for another operation.

"If I can get a home here and get the family settled and the kids back to school—then I'll go to hospital, not before," he said.

Word last night was that the city social welfare department had obtained a home for the Williams family. But they cannot move in unless they have furniture.

Greater Victorians wishing to donate furniture, dishes, pots and pans or clothes should get in touch with Miss R. P.

Tervo at EV 34279. She is secretary of the society.

The house for the Williams is located at 448 Moss Street.

How does the Indian family take its burden?

They are as far down as any family can get, but they are not out.

Yesterday Mrs. Williams was sitting in a Victoria hotel room on one of the three beds the family of nine has to sleep in.

"We are starting right from the bottom again," she said.

Suddenly, a resident of the same hotel stuck his head in the door and beckoned to the children, handing them five pieces of pastry.

"I'm sorry I don't have enough to go around," he said. The other five children—David, 2, Johnny, 4, Georgina, 5, Celestine, 7, and Wilma, 11—played in the dingy hotel corridor with the happiness of children who don't notice misery—much.

Medically, Mrs. Williams is being looked after by the city health nurse and a VON nurse. But unless many help the Williams family, their eighth child will be born into a life hardly worth living.

Pylon Blasted In Fraser Valley

ABBOTSFORD (CP) — Bomb damage was discovered Wednesday night under a power pylon on a main British Columbia Hydro transmission line carrying power to the Vancouver area.

The explosion occurred some 30 miles from the special federal prison where about 100 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors are serving terms for terrorism and bombings. Many of their relatives are camped in a tent town near the penitentiary.

Nobody's Talking

Nine Negroes Shot In Gang 'Rumble'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — An apparent gang "rumble" erupted Wednesday night and nine Negroes were wounded by shotgun blasts from a moving car.

There was no racial connection to the shootings, police said. Negroes were believed to have fired the shots.

The shootings occurred at two separate locations. Two persons were shot in the first incident.

Five minutes later and 11 blocks away, seven Negroes were wounded.

Officers said the victims apparently knew who the assailants were but refused to tell. Police said they believed it involved gang warfare between the 31st Street gang, 23rd Street gang and the Leeds gang.

PELLET WOUNDS

The seven victims injured in the second incident were sitting on a porch and most received shotgun pellet wounds in the legs.

All nine were taken to hospital. Spokesmen said none was seriously wounded.

30 Dead

Carnage Left By Hurricane

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters) — A United States naval pilot flying medical supplies to hurricane-shattered Tobago island told Wednesday that "scenes of carnage" were at least 30 persons died.

Capt. Joseph Diener flew the first U.S. airlift of medical supplies and a three-man medical team to the island, lashed by the 140-mile-an-hour winds of Hurricane Flora Monday.

MERCY FLIGHTS

The mercy flights continued as U.S. forecasters warned that the northward moving hurricane had become a menace to other Caribbean areas.

Tons of food were flown to Tobago and a dozen Trinidad medical men were flown in to aid Tobago's overtaxed Scarborough hospital. Gifts of cash, food and clothing poured into collection depots here for the stricken islanders.

ANGRY EDITORIAL

The Evening News in an editorial calls for better hurricane reporting facilities to be set up by British, French and Dutch authorities in the area as complaints grew that Tobago had not received adequate warning of the storm's coming.

The London Lloyd's insurance agency confirmed Wednesday that the Tobago death toll was at least 30.

U.S.-Canada N-Pact To Remain Secret

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons Wednesday defeated by a vote of 105 to 91 the motion of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that the government make public the Aug. 16 Canada-U.S. nuclear custody and control agreement.

The Liberals were joined in defeating the motion by four Social Credit members: leader Robert Thompson, A. B. Patterson, Fraser Valley, Bert Leboe, Cariboo, and H. A. Olson, Medicine Hat.

Premier Bennett held his first capital press conference since Monday's election yesterday and opened it by happily shuffling through a thick wad of congratulatory letters and telegrams.

He got over a thousand, he said, as he played peek-a-boo with reporters through a dense thicket of floral bouquets sent to him by well-wishers.

It was a goodwill press conference.

The premier was beaming. For the first time in weeks he castigated nobody.

At one point he started to say something about Tory leader Fulton but caught himself just in time with, "No, no, I won't say that."

Were any of the telegrams non-congratulatory? a reporter asked.

"No, no," said the premier, or if there were his efficient staff had culled them out.

One telegram was from Liberal leader Ray Perrault, he said. Sacred leaders Robert Thompson and Ron Caouette had also sent messages.

When newsmen laughed at this the premier said "they come from all wings of the party—it takes two wings to fly."

He hoped his government would last as long as the Alberta Social Credit government — 28 years so far and still going strong.

Bennett Picks New Speaker

Prince Rupert hotel owner William Murray will be speaker at the next session of the legislature.

He will succeed Hugh Shantz, the Vernon realtor who declined renomination by the Socials before the Sept. 30 election and who had been speaker since 1959.

ACTING CHAIRMAN

Mr. Murray, 47, has been acting chairman of the House for the past two sessions.

Premier Bennett told a press conference yesterday he hoped to recommend him as speaker at the next session.

The announcement amounts to a certain appointment in spite of the fact the House has the right of choice.

Mr. Murray will step ahead of Alex Matthew, 76, deputy speaker for many years.

His part-time job — the speaker is only active while the legislature is in session — will bring him pay to $9,800 a year. He gets $4,400 as an MLA and the speaker gets a further $3,500.

MIGHT RESIGN

The premier was confident the minister would win on the final count and, if he didn't, there was the possibility someone might resign to create a vacancy for him.

Considered likely alternative choices if Mr. Westwood has to be replaced are Dan Campbell of Comox and William Speare of Cariboo.

Doublecross Saved Capone

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph Valachi, spilling the secrets of the crime brotherhood called Cosa Nostra, told senators Wednesday a gangland doublecross backfired as overlords of the New York mob turned on each other in a fierce battle for power.

He told of a secret list that marked for doom such underworld big shots of 30 years ago as Al Capone, Frank Costello, Charles (Lucky) Luciano, Vito Genovese, Vincent Mangano and Dutch Schultz.

RELIEF RESIGN

And he told of the slaying of Salvatore Maranzano, the man who drew up the list, killed by his rivals after a brief reign as Cosa Nostra's "boss of all bosses."

The hearings were recessed until next Tuesday morning. Maranzano grabbed power, Valachi said, after lieutenant of rival boss Giuseppe Masseria gunned down their own chief in a Coney Island restaurant.

Opera Stars Meistersinger By Art Buchwald, Page 18

"His own lieutenants wanted to do it themselves," Valachi told investigating senators. That ended a 14-month gang war Valachi said cost Masseria's outfit 40 to 60 dead.

But five months later, Valachi peace and installed himself as the head man.

He described a five-night banquet which honored Maranzano and his "soldiers" — and raised $115,000 for the coffers of the Cosa Nostra chief.

"I never got a nickel," Valachi said. He said Maranzano planned to use the money to send his soldiers "back to the mattresses" — back to warfare to wipe out the men on his death list.

New Blood Kills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Membership in the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate could be bought for up to $10,000 as late as 1958 providing the buyer had Italian parents, Joseph Valachi said Wednesday. But this attempt to recruit new men ended when organizers Albert Anastasia and Frank Scarlato were murdered.

LAWS SOUGHT

The investigation is designed to produce evidence that will help win passage of new anti-crime laws sought by the justice department.

Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy wants Congress to authorize wiretapping in the war against organized crime, and to pass a law that would grant witnesses against the gangs immunity from prosecution, while denying them the right to refuse testimony on grounds of self-incrimination.

He would build the bridge but the throughways are out as far as the government is concerned. They would spoil Vancouver and they aren't necessary anyway, he said.

He also made it crystal clear he isn't going to force any merger of municipalities in B.C., particularly in Greater Victoria.

BOY HELD IN KILLING

City police are holding a 15-year-old juvenile in custody in connection with the investigation of the George Down murder case.

Police Chief J. F. Gregory said last night no charges had been laid.

The juvenile, who was picked up by police in Victoria on a routine check early Sept. 26, had escaped from Brannan Lake industrial school. It was discovered he was driving a stolen car.

He was questioned about his movements and it was learned he was in Victoria at the time of the Down murder, Chief Gregory said.

By DAVID WILLEY

TUNIS — The sleek white Soviet cruise ship Litva is steaming in the sunshine along the North African coast, and the Red Chinese are howling a capitalistic orgy is taking place on board.

The Litva holds a mixed cargo of international journalists, mainly from the Soviet bloc, who are holding a floating conference. Several communists have joked heavily that a Chinese submarine was trailing the liner.

The Red Chinese boycotted the junket and, in a document circulated in Algiers, asked how a luxury Mediterranean cruise was possibly going to help the "struggle of the people."

They accused the Russians of wooing western journalists with vodka, caviar and "other pleasures," which the comrades were not adverse to sharing with "decadent western imperialists."

Despite the charges, the cruise has been a rather dull affair. It has been somewhat enlivened by the bubbling presence of Alexei Adzhubel, Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law and editor of Izvestia.

Adzhubel appeared on deck in a variety of colorful sport shirts which contrasted favorably with the rather drab cruise dress of most of his comrades.

He also led a lot of hearty singing and at the ship's concert proceeded to conduct a vigorous cruise song composed by the Soviet delegation.

There were gallant attempts at organized jollification. "Let's organize a swimming and diving competition," exhorted one poster. This seemed rather over-optimistic, since the ship's swimming pool only had three feet of water in it.

The "other pleasures" darkly hinted at in the Chinese document turned out to be fairly innocuous. The pretty girl stewards on board danced rather staid foxtrots and polkas with the East European delegations, and couldn't seem to "get with it" when the African journalists started to sway to the rhythms of the three-piece band which accompanied the cruise.
